

as a cover for the hasty retreat of the defeated Russians and Rumanians. Today the railroad line from Constantza to Tchernavoda is completely in the hands of the victorious allies, constituting with the valuable material in locomotives and railroad cars taken with it, a first-class base for strategic operation. All this material was abandoned by the fleeing Russians and Rumanians.

The defeated army was separated into two parts. Those who did not remain on the battlefield or were not taken prisoner, saved themselves by flight across the Tchernavoda bridge over the Danube or to the northward in Dobruja.

"After the capture of Tchernavoda this famous Danube bridge was dominated by Von Mackensen's guns. The bridge is the largest in all Europe. Its total length across both branches of the Danube and the swamp and frequently impassable terrain traversed being 14 miles. It was completed in 1892.

"With the loss of the Constantza-Tchernavoda line by Rumania, the transport of provisions from Russia will have to be conducted over two minor and less efficiently equipped railway lines in Moldavia or by way of the Danube ports of Galatz and Ibraila, which are by no means comparable to Constantza. At the same time, the most important route for artillery transportation by way of the railway from Constantza to Bucharest is virtually eliminated. All shipments must go by way of Ibraila and Ploesti.

"The military situation for the Rumanians during the past two days has become much more critical, especially as the Germans and Austro-Hungarians already have partially conquered the Carpathian passes."

Fort Douaumont Evacuated Prior to Its Capture, Berlin Says.

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—Fort Douaumont, in the Verdun region, was evacuated by the German garrison prior to its capture by the French, says the official statement issued today by army headquarters. Further French attacks against Fort Douaumont and also Fort Vaux yesterday were repulsed by the Germans, the statement adds.

The statement says: "Western theater: Army group of Crown Prince Rupprecht—Our artillery bombardment efficiently held under fire the enemy trenches, batteries and establishments on both sides of the Somme yesterday. "Our positions on the north bank of the river were covered by the enemy with strong bombardments which prepared the English for partial advances north of Concellette, Le Sars, Guerdun and Les Boeufs. None of these attacks succeeded. They only caused new sacrifices to the enemy.

"Army group of Crown Prince Frederick William—A French attack day before yesterday northeast of Verdun, favored by misty weather, advanced beyond the destroyed trenches as far as the fort and village of Douaumont. The fort had been evacuated by the garrison. We did not succeed in recouping the works before the enemy entered. Our troops took prepared positions close to the north of the fort, in a majority cases only upon strict command and then reluctantly. In these positions yesterday all further French attacks, especially violent ones against Vaux, were repulsed."

Russians Attempt to Advance Without Artillery Preparation.

BERLIN, by wireless to Sayville, Oct. 26.—Russian battalions yesterday evening made an advance without artillery preparation against the German positions to the west of Lutsk, in Volhynia, says today's German official statement. The storming Russian waves, the statement adds, broke down under the German artillery fire.

BERLIN, by wireless to Sayville, Oct. 26.—The Admiralty today made the following announcement: "In the month of September 141 hostile merchantmen with an aggregate tonnage of 182,000 were sunk or brought in by submarines of the central powers, or destroyed by mines. Thirteen captains of hostile ships were taken prisoner and the crew of 2,000 men were taken prisoner. In addition, 39 neutral merchant ships of an aggregate tonnage of 72,600 tons were sunk for carrying contraband."

BRITISH WILL SMASH LINE AT SOMME, GENERAL SAYS

Haig's Right Hand Man Declares Germans Are Being Tired Out—Full Victory May Not Come Until Summer.

By FREDERICK PALMER.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, via London, Oct. 26.—"Can the German line on the Western front be broken?" is the question I asked of Gen. Sir Henry Rawlinson, who, next to Gen. Sir Douglas Haig, few British soldiers are in a better position to judge. He is Gen. Haig's right-hand man in the Somme offensive and is to Haig what Sherman was to Grant and Jackson was to Lee.

"Undoubtedly it can," Gen. Rawlinson's reply to the question which the whole world is asking. "Rawley," as he is known, has been for nearly four months directing the sledge-hammer blows of one of the armies under Sir Douglas Haig's command. The character of each commander being impressed upon his surroundings, Gen. Rawlinson's headquarters might be recognized by the smartness of the sentries, the neatness of the grounds and the look and sharp manner of his subordinates. He is hardly the accepted phlegmatic English type, except in his build and tenacity, and he has all the spirit that he had as a young guardsman when he was noted for his wonderful vitality, his love of sports and his personal seal.

Likes to Play Tennis.

Where young Rawlinson appeared there was bound to be action. He is still equal to putting in most of the night and all the morning directing a big operation and then finishing relaxation from the strain in a game of tennis. In the big staff rooms on the lower floor of a chateau, where he has office trunks, batteries and establishments on both sides of the Somme yesterday. "Our positions on the north bank of the river were covered by the enemy with strong bombardments which prepared the English for partial advances north of Concellette, Le Sars, Guerdun and Les Boeufs. In addition, 39 neutral merchant ships of an aggregate tonnage of 72,600 tons were sunk for carrying contraband."

German Plan Failed.

"They say that the Germans hoped to force you to attack prematurely last February," the correspondent suggested. "Nothing could better have suited their purpose," was the reply, "than to have induced us to attack before we were ready. They had thinned their lines in the East and massed their reserves in the West. Happily, owing to French tenacity and pluck, we were given time to wait for new guns which were beginning to arrive from England in gratifying numbers, and for munitions factories to start the big flow of shells.

"Roads and light railways had been built for bringing up the immense quantities of munitions and supplies of all kinds requisite for the attack on fortified lines which the Germans had been nearly two years in building and for continuing the offensive, once it had started.

"The wastage of life and material in so titanic a struggle must be foreseen and calculated, and arrangements made for renewal. Our machine must be so organized that no contingency could throw it out of gear and that we should have everything required in abundance for the complicated business of modern war, which should enable us to press any advantages gained.

"Are you satisfied with the results?" "Yes, we have taken position after position and 30,000 prisoners. For nearly four months this new army has kept on attacking; it has asserted its mastery over the enemy who had 40 years of preparation. The dogged, heroic gallantry and tenacity of our infantry have been proved. Despite their desperate counter attacks, how few prisoners the Germans have taken.

Schooling for Young Officers.

"When, in their eagerness, our battalions have advanced too far because the resistance was comparatively light, and the Germans closed in with superior numbers, our men either held their ground successfully or died fighting, rather than yield. This is the spirit which we have to work with in our future plans. Our young officers, who knew nothing of war two years ago, have had a schooling of battle. The places of those who have fallen are being filled by chosen men from the ranks, as well as from the schools at home and in France."

"You have been fighting the Germans for two years now, General; have they degenerated?" said the correspondent. "Decidedly. They are still a brave and skillful army, but a tired army. For the first time they have known what it was to face superior artillery fire and armies which knew their lessons as well as they do. The French and ourselves fight as one army. If either develops any improvement, it is shared with the other. So similar have our systems become that I never consider whether I have an English or a French army alongside of me.

Lack of Cohesion Observed.

"The Germans, too, are quick to adapt any new wrinkles from us. We are all learners, even after two years of war. After some of our attacks, confusion in the German lines and a breakdown of the German staff organization were evidence from the haste with which ill-assorted units were rushed haphazard into the front line. There was lack of cohesion on their part, and this induced confusion, which sometimes cost them heavier on the defense than the cost to ourselves on the offensive.

"General Skobelev once said that in every hundred men there was a small proportion who were naturally brave, a larger proportion who would respond to drill and discipline, and again a small proportion who were funks. A small proportion of the Germans have shown tenacious and defiant courage, particularly in their defense of machine gun positions. The great majority have ceased to respond to leadership with their old ardor.

"As for the funks, who are disciplined into courage, they are the ones who have been following their natural instincts of self-preservation and holding up their hands when our men approach in their charges."

Must Keep on Hammering.

Can the line be broken? "Undoubtedly it can, and it will be sooner or later. All that is necessary is to keep on hammering.

"In this war as in every other war, victory must come as the result of moral and physical superiority continued for a sufficient time at a decisive point. The first step is to force the enemy to defense; then superior shellfire, superior man-power and relentless pressure in attack must so deplete his organization and morale that one day he will break."

BANDITS SAID TO DEMAND THAT U.S. ARMY QUIT MEXICO

Villa Followers Reported by Americans to Insist on Gradual Evacuation.

COLUMBUS, N. M., Oct. 26.—Villa bandits operating near Namiquipa, only 25 miles south of American expedition's southern outpost, have demanded the shortening of the American troop line and gradual evacuation of Mexican territory by the United States army, Americans coming to the border from Mexico report.

Many Mexicans of Wealthy Class Gather in San Antonio.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Officials reports received here showing that members of the Carranza, Obregon, Trevino, Huerta and Madero families are now in San Antonio, Tex., have puzzled observers seeking an explanation of the gathering in the United States of non-combatant Mexicans. The reports do not explain their presence.

Some officials believe, however, economic and social conditions generally in Mexico are such as to make Mexicans of the wealthy class anxious to get their women folk out of the country for the present. The dispatches indicate that most of the women have come recently from Mexico.

The State Department has not received, so far as known, any official reports bearing out the charges of Gen. Carranza's political enemies that his grip is relaxing and that he is preparing to leave Mexico.

The exodus to San Antonio has been used to support this view, but high officials have seen nothing showing such a development is to be expected.

It is agreed in official circles that the military situation in Chihuahua State has been made highly uncertain by renewed bandit activities. Despite persistency of reports that Villa is personally leading his men against the Carranza garrison at Chihuahua City, neither the State or War Departments has received convincing reports that he is alive.

Military experts are frankly pessimistic of the result of the Carranza campaign against these bandits. They believe that the De Facto troops have little chance to destroy the brigands because they have no transport trains and supply systems which would permit them to chase the outlaws into the barren hill country. It is known that this weakness of the Mexican forces has been strongly presented to the American-Mexico Commission. To the minds of American army officers it represents a serious obstacle to the present restoration of order in Northern Mexico.

Legislation to Let Settlers Vote.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 26.—Gov. J. A. Burnquist today issued a call for a special session of the State Legislature to assemble Oct. 28, for the purpose of considering legislation that would make it possible for the Minnesota National Guardsmen at the Mexican border to vote in the general election, Nov. 7.

TAFT ARRIVES HERE EARLY AND HAS A BUSY DAY

Ex-President Met by Mayor and Committee and Later Entertained at Luncheon.

CRIES: "HELLO, OLD PEACE"

That Is His Greeting to Bar-
tholdt—Speech at Cleveland
High School Tonight.

Former President William Howard Taft arrived here at 8:30 this morning to fill speaking engagements. At noon he will be given a luncheon at the City Club. He will speak tonight at the Cleveland High School, after dining at the Racquet Club. From the club he will be escorted by students in parade to the Cleveland school. This will be his only appearance in St. Louis during the presidential campaign.

When Mr. Taft came in this morning he was welcomed by a delegation of probably 50 St. Louis Republicans.

In the delegation were Mayor Kiel, Collector Koehn, former Congressman Bartholdt, John Schmitt, Dr. H. J. Barto, candidate for Congress from the Eleventh District; Otto Stifel and Charles Nagel.

Mayor Kiel was first to greet Mr. Taft as he descended alone from the train. He is in the best of health and upon seeing the delegation began smiling and laughing and shook hands all around.

Meeting With Bartholdt. When Bartholdt approached and extended his hand, Mr. Taft threw back his head and laughed aloud. Bystanders craned their necks to see the occasion for the merriment.

"Hello, Old Peace," Mr. Taft said to Bartholdt as he shook the former Congressman's hand. Further salutes followed much to the amusement of the delegation.

As Mr. Taft shook each hand he had some humorous comment to make, showing that he knew and remembered many of the men in the delegation that had come to welcome him.

Before entering his automobile to be driven to the Planters Hotel for breakfast, Mr. Taft stopped long enough to give a hasty interview to reporters.

"What's the political prospects, Judge?" he was asked.

"Nothing but Hughes everywhere I go," he retorted. "No matter where I have gone, it all looks like Hughes to me. Wilson fellows may think different, but the country is going to go for Hughes."

Someone then told Mr. Taft that he looked in the pink of health.

"I am," he replied. "Never felt better in my life." This was accompanied by another huge laugh, and the crowd joined in because Mr. Taft's laugh is infectious.

"What do you weigh, Judge?" someone else asked.

"Two hundred sixty-two and a half," replied Mr. Taft. "I lost about 20 pounds during the summer."

When another in the delegation told the former President that he was looking very well, Mr. Taft exclaimed:

"Well, why shouldn't I? I am living the straight and narrow path, the path of extreme righteousness, and that probably is why I am for Hughes." This remark brought another laugh from those around him.

After this, Mr. Taft was taken to his automobile and driven to the Planters for breakfast. Accompanying him were Mayor Kiel, Bartholdt, Otto Stifel and Nagel.

BOGOSIAN INDICTED FOR MURDER OF MAGARIAN BOY

East St. Louis Detective Chief Says
Evidence Against Armenian Is Entirely Circumstantial.

A partial report of the East St. Louis City Court grand jury this morning included an indictment of Zakar Bogosian, Armenian poolroom proprietor, charged with the murder of 3-year-old Alphonse Magarian, whose headless body was found on a public dump Oct. 13.

Christian Marx, who Monday night shot and killed his lifelong friend, Emil Asfeld, because he believed Asfeld had made disparaging statements about him, also was indicted on a charge of murder.

Another indictment was that against William P. Chambers and John Womack, in connection with the partial burning of Chambers' home at Nineteenth street and Cleveland avenue, several weeks ago. Both are charged with conspiracy to defraud.

Chief of Detectives Stocker said that the evidence on which Bogosian was indicted was entirely circumstantial. The police yesterday held two men and a woman for several hours to question them about the murder, but released them. The room, bearing spots that resembled blood, is being examined by a St. Louis expert to determine the character of the spots.

Never any sour, gassy or acid stomach, heartburn or dyspepsia.

"Pape's Diapiesin" makes weak stomachs strong and healthy at once.

You can eat anything your stomach craves without fear of indigestion, acidity or dyspepsia, or that your food will ferment or sour on your stomach if you will take a little Diapiesin occasionally.

Your meals will taste good, and anything you eat will be digested; nothing can ferment or turn into acid or poison or stomach gas, which causes belching, dizziness, a feeling of fullness after eating, nausea, indigestion (like a lump of lead in stomach), biliousness, heartburn, water brash, pain in stomach and intestines or other symptoms.

Headaches from the stomach are absolutely unknown where this effective remedy is used. Diapiesin really does all the work of a healthy stomach. It digests your meals when your stomach can't. A single dose will digest all the food you eat and leave nothing to ferment or sour and upset the stomach.

Get a large 50-cent case of Pape's Diapiesin from your druggist and start taking it now, and in a little while you will actually brag about your healthy, strong stomach, for you then can eat anything and everything you want without the slightest discomfort or misery, and every particle of impurity and gas that is in your stomach and intestines is going to be carried away without the use of laxatives or any other assistance.

Should you at this moment be suffering from indigestion or any stomach disorder you can get relief within five minutes.—ADV.

HUGHES STARTS ON HIS FINAL TOUR BEFORE ELECTION

Enters "Home Stretch" of Campaign With Speech at Hartford, Conn.

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 25.—Charles E. Hughes went into what he termed "the homestretch of the campaign" with the opening speech here today of his last trip before election day. The nominee, in a theater, spoke before an audience composed partly of workers in munitions plants near by.

"This is no time for complacency," he said. "This is no time for political talk about prosperity. It is a time for thought. When the men now in the trenches of Europe are withdrawn to follow the pursuits of peace, the abnormal stimulus of the war will be withdrawn and the men in this country now engaged in satisfying the demands of Europe at war, will no longer have that demand to satisfy."

Will Face New Europe. "It is a new Europe we will have to meet, a disciplined, organized Europe, and we should meet it with a new United States. And you can no more run this country in the coming years on the tariff principle of our opponents than you can fly to the moon."

Hughes alluded also to the Adamson bill, deprecate every effort to arouse class antagonism in this country," he said. "There is no hope for an America embittered by class antagonism. You can engulf us in the most serious social disturbances that way. It takes no wit to develop a feeling of bitterness. It only requires thoughtless thought and the application of force instead of following the rule of reason."

The nominee declared that co-operation also was necessary between capital and labor for industrial stability. "There are no lies of safety in American life," he said in asserting that the time had passed when men could "build little citadels along the highways of commerce."

Greets Yale Students. En route to Hartford, Hughes was greeted by station crowds at New Haven and Meriden. Several hundred Yale students cheered him at New Haven. Their spokesman told him that classroom duties had prevented others from being present. To these Hughes sent the following telegram:

"Extend to the men of Yale my best wishes and appreciation of what they are doing in the campaign. The campaign concerns the efforts of young men and there is little hope for the young men of America unless we have a sound basis for enterprise and American rights are properly safeguarded. I am glad to hear of the organization of the Hughes Club at Yale. I could talk an hour on the subject of college men in their relations to politics today."

Mrs. Hughes left the party at Hartford for Wellesley to spend the afternoon with her daughter, Miss Catherine, who is a freshman at Wellesley College. Hughes left Hartford at 1 o'clock for Providence.

State's Contention. The State contended that the action of another jury should not be permitted to influence the action of the jury. The State also contended that where a conviction takes place the State had not the right to introduce the judgment of the conviction in another case and that what applied to the State should apply to the defense.

Judge Briggs decided to admit the judgment in the Winn case, but excluded that in the O'Leary case, "at this time," after he had asked the defense whether it intended to introduce Winn and O'Leary as witnesses and had been told that the defense probably would do so. Testimony so far has not shown that O'Leary was in the room where the killing of Black took place.

State Called 5 Witnesses. The State rested yesterday afternoon. Only five witnesses had been examined. Sadie Black, adopted daughter of the lecturer, it was announced, was on her way to Galveston from Illinois and would arrive tonight. The State's attorneys said she would be a witness for them in rebuttal.

The defense began its case with an attempt to introduce as evidence what it called an authentic copy of the fourth degree oath of the Knights of Columbus, to refute the authority of the circular introduced in evidence as having been circulated by Clarence F. Hall, Black's business agent. It was sworn to by a witness, but, after he had stated that he was a fourth degree member of the organization, and familiar with the oath taken, the State objected to its introduction.

Arguments on Order's Oath. The jury was excused during arguments. Attorneys Mart Royston and James B. Stubbins contended that the oath should be admitted as evidence as refuting the oath circulated by Black, which they said was "false and scurrilous" and as showing the motive of Copeland in going to Black to protest against "mother letters."

Judge Briggs upheld "at this time," however, the contention of Attorneys Marsene Johnson and P. C. Beard for the State, that no ground had been laid for the introduction of the oath.

The defense's next move was to summon two witnesses who had attended the lecture given by William Black in Marshall, on the night preceding the shooting.

Henry Holcomb, a shop workman of Marshall, said Black declared the convicts were more or less prisoners and ought to have government inspection. The lecturer, he added, also made sensational statements about the relations of nuns and priests and declared he would rather see his wife or mother dead than in a convent.

"Did he make a wholesale denunciation of the nuns?" asked Attorney Beard, on cross-examination.

"Yes, nearly all," replied the witness. He added that the lecturer was widely talked about in the shop next day.

Walter Scott, now of Fort Worth, but at the time of the killing helping about his father's store in Marshall, gave testimony similar to Holcomb's. He said that Black declared during his address that he had been shot several times, had been in a hospital several times and expected that he would die in "the cause."

Connection With Masonic Order. The State objected when the defense sought to introduce a deposition taken at Lawrence, Kansas, Ky., detailing Black's entrance into and departure from the Masonic order. It claimed the deposition was intended to injure Black's character with the jury. The objection was sustained by Judge Briggs, at this time.

The defense had contended that the deposition was admissible as showing that Black was unreliable and that statements made by him could not be believed. This, it contended, would justify the action of Copeland in going to him to protest against his lectures.

The defense used one of the State's witnesses as a character witness for Copeland. He was John W. Herndon, a Marshall undertaker, who took charge of Black's body after the shooting.

"How long have you known Copeland?"

"Twenty or 25 years," said Herndon. "What is his reputation for peace and order?"

Herndon said he was a Protestant. Statement by the Court.

At the opening of court in the afternoon, Judge Briggs issued the following statement:

"On behalf of one of the newspapers, counsel for each newspaper has invited the court's attention to the attitude assumed by it that the Court has no power to punish for contempt any newspaper violating the Court's order entered on yesterday in publishing the testimony in this case in any edition of such newspaper circulating in Galveston County; asserting in such communication further, that if a request on the

Will Testify in Texas Trial of Copeland for Death of Anti-Catholic Speaker.

GALVESTON, Tex., Oct. 25.—The defense resumed the presentation of its evidence today in the trial of John Copeland, bank cashier of Marshall, Tex., charged with the murder of William Black, an anti-Catholic lecturer, at Marshall, in February, 1915.

The first action of the judge today was to pass on the objection entered by the State last night to the introduction of the judgment of the District Court of Harrison County in the case of Harry Winn and Frank O'Leary of Marshall, acquitting them of the killing of Black.

The defense sought, it said, to introduce the judgments against and possible argument by the State that Copeland and other men had sought Black out as a result of conspiracy to kill him. It said that the fact that two men had been acquitted would bear on conspiracy allegations against the others.

State's Contention. The State contended that the action of another jury should not be permitted to influence the action of the jury. The State also contended that where a conviction takes place the State had not the right to introduce the judgment of the conviction in another case and that what applied to the State should apply to the defense.

CLOSE VIEW OF FALKENHAYN ON THE RUMANIAN FRONT

Post-Dispatch Man Gives Interesting Glimpses of German Leader's Personality—Is French-like in Courtesy—Has Aged in Year.

HEADQUARTERS OF GEN. VON FALKENHAYN, IN TRANSYLVANIA, Oct. 19 (by courier to Berlin).—"Satisfactory," was the laconic reply of Gen. von Falkenhayn tonight, at dinner at his headquarters, I asked the Commander in Chief of the German and Hun armies, so-called Falkenhayn army, how the campaign against Rumania was progressing.

On my expressing amazement at the quickness with which he had taken Red Tower and Toersburger passes and the ease with which he had passed the Command in Chief of the German and Hun armies, so-called Falkenhayn army, how the campaign against Rumania was progressing.

There is the same fascinating dash about him, but also a deeper earnestness and a greater sedateness. Always almost Frenchlike in the courtesy and cor-part of the court had been made of the press not to publish such testimony. It was believed by such counsel that the request would have been observed.

"The Court has never sought to abridge the constitutional guarantee of the freedom of the press, but undoubtedly feels it has both the power under the law of the State, and that it is proper to make the order that it did in this proceeding."

"The question of whether the Court has power to punish for contempt for disobedience of such order is not before the Court at this time."

Purpose of the Order. "The Court's order was framed with specific reference to the libel statute of the State and what may be considered privileged matter thereunder. The letter in question seems to admit the propriety of the effort of the Court to prevent unusual publicity being given the proceedings in this case, but refuses to have the newspapers for which he is counsel placed in the attitude of observing a mandatory order of the Court."

"This Court assumes that it is known that the Court has made no threat of contempt proceedings and that by placing the limitation upon its order that it did no yesterday, and only prohibiting the publication in editions circulating in this county, that the Court was not even denying to the press the rights conferred under the libel statute as to privileged matter, except insofar as Galveston County is concerned; and in view of that limitation the Court feels that it was an unmistakable indication to the press that it desired to refrain from publishing the evidence in this case in Galveston County.

"If the view should be further entertained or taken by the press that it will decline to respect the wishes of the Court, the Court will feel obliged to remove the limitation as privileged matter anywhere in this section of the State, or even the State at large."

Striking Tobacco Workers ASK TO BE TAKEN BACK

Part of Liggett & Myers Men Return Today and the Rest Will Report Tomorrow.

Striking employees of the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co., who have been out for several days, demanding a wage increase of 10 per cent, sent Joseph Meyer and Edward Thornhill to the superintendent this morning to ask if the strikers could return to their jobs. The superintendent told them part could return today and the rest tomorrow. About 100 returned to work this morning. There have been 1650 on strike.

Strikers say they have received intimations that the company will later consider their demand for the increase and they think it will be granted. Officials of the company refused to make a statement.

Average Rumanian Good Soldier. His chief of staff, Col. H., whom I first knew in 1914 as the chief of staff for Gen. von Zwest, the conqueror of Masburg, manifested greater enthusiasm over the success of the Falkenhayn army against the Rumanians. He described the fighting of the Rumanians as "good in spots." He considered the average Rumanian a good soldier, but had no praise for the leadership of the Rumanian officers, whose tactics had not, he thought, justified a high opinion of their ability.

At the same time, Falkenhayn's chief of staff dwelt on the great disadvantage of green troops and inexperienced officers against hardened veterans, led by officers of practical experience on many fields.

When I referred to the splendid troops I had seen in Red Tower, Toersburger and Predel passes, Col. H.—remarked that events would show the entente allies were deceiving themselves if they believed Germany's reserves were exhausted.

CHICAGO DAILY NEWS FOR HUGHES; FOR WILSON IN 1912

Editorial Tells Why Publication Is Opposed to the President at This Election.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—The Chicago Daily News, which supported President Wilson for the nomination and also the election in 1912, declared yesterday in a vigorous column editorial in favor of Hughes.

The editorial, in part, follows: "When the question of national leadership came before the country four years ago, the Daily News strongly advised the Democratic party to make Woodrow Wilson its candidate for President. The arguments persistently advanced on his behalf by this newspaper are known to have contributed in no inconsiderable degree to Mr. Wilson's nomination by the Baltimore convention. "In the succeeding campaign the Daily News heartily supported Mr. Wilson's candidacy. Many of his actions as President have received its full approval. However, certain characteristics of the nation, characteristics clearly revealed by his official course, have led him into actions that appear to the Daily News subversive of popular government and even of the foundations of public order and safety."

NEW $300,000,000 LOAN TO GREAT BRITAIN ARRANGED

Bankers Say Prevailing Sense of Money Led to Negotiation of Additional Credit.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Announcement that negotiations for a $300,000,000 credit by the British Government have been finished, is made in a statement issued by J. P. Morgan & Co. after a series of conferences participated in by most of the prominent bankers of New York and representatives of Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago and Pittsburgh houses, which were members of the former syndicate. It says in part: "A new British Government offering had not been in contemplation at the present time, but the prevailing sense of money, and the difficulty which the banks are having in probably employing their funds, have led us to indicate to the British Government that the present is a favorable time for it to establish additional credits in America, even though such credits may not be immediately required. Accordingly, the British Treasury has today accepted the views of the American bankers and has authorized them to proceed." $4.00 TOLEDO AND RETURN October 27th and 28th, via WASH. 309 N. FARM JOURNAL POLL GIVES WILSON A BIG MAJORITY President Receives Almost Twice as Many Indorsements as Hughes From Readers.

The editors of the Farm Journal, published in Philadelphia, in a letter to the Post-Dispatch, announce that a straw vote of their readers up to this time shows 1890 for Wilson and 732 for Hughes.

"It is particularly interesting to note, the Editors say, 'that Hughes is not quite as strong now as he was six weeks ago—as the vote increases. Hughes strength diminishes slightly. 'Every state in the union is represented in the Farm Journal's poll, which is entirely a voluntary matter, inasmuch as we simply have set a little notice in the paper and asked people to express their preferences one way or the other. The vote for the Socialist and Prohibition candidates is fairly large, Benson having 847 votes and Hanly 112.'"

SCHWAB ONCE WORKED FOR $10 A MONTH IN STORE

Became Interested in Steel Business After Marriage, and Rise Was Rapid.

Charles M. Schwab's career and his methods have been the subjects of articles in the last two monthly issues of the American Magazine. The first article, written by an interviewer, is about Schwab; the second, which is to be followed by a third in the next number, is written by Schwab.

The first article tells of Schwab's first work, as driver of his father's stage coach between the Pennsylvania towns of Loretto and Cresson. "Smiling Charlie," it is related, always carried a book, which he would study while the horses were getting their wind.

When he was 15 years old Schwab got a job in a grocery store in Braddock, Pa., at $10 a month. He slept in the store, got up at 6:30 to sweep out, and worked until 10:30 or 11 at night. Old Capt. Bill Jones was then building up the plant of the Edgar Thompson Steel Co., and Schwab persuaded Jones to give him a job, at $1 a day, driving stakes and dragging chains for the engineers. In six months he became assistant engineer, and within three years chief of the engineering corps at $350 a month. He married the daughter of a chemist who conducted experiments in steel, and he took up scientific research into the steel business, under the tutelage of his father-in-law. Seven years after his first entrance into the business, it is related, Schwab had designed and built the great Homestead plant for Andrew Carnegie, and later, at Braddock, he succeeded Capt. Jones.

The story, told a dozen years ago, that Schwab was drawing a salary of $1,000,000 a year, made his name known, and caused discussion of his achievements throughout the country. The fact about this matter, it appears, is that the late J. Pierpont Morgan proposed to make Schwab's salary, as head of the United States Steel Corporation, $1,000,000 a year. Schwab replied that he did not care to work for a salary, and then remarked that he supposed Morgan would expect the earnings of the company, under Schwab's management, to be $70,000,000 a year. Morgan said that instead of a salary, he would take 2 per cent of all the earnings over $70,000,000. Morgan agreed, and "Schwab made more than his million."

In 1903 he retired from the head of the Steel Trust, with holdings of stock in the corporation worth $30,000,000, to take over the rundown Bethlehem plant, which was said to be losing money at the rate of $1,000,000 a year. Today this plant covers 1350 acres and Schwab, with 60,000 employees, is the largest individual employer in the world. His 15 vice presidents are described as "the wealthiest beneficiaries of the profit-sharing system in the world, this method of reward being a lesson which Schwab learned from Carnegie."

Schwab has been described as America's greatest salesman. He proved his right to this title, it is declared, when he sold Carnegie's steel company to Morgan and his associates for $487,000,000. This sale, it is related, followed an after-dinner speech in which Schwab, in the hearing of Morgan, painted the future of the steel business, if combination should take the place of ruinous competition. He again proved his salesmanship, it is declared, when, at the outbreak of the war, he "slipped across the Atlantic and got millions of dollars in orders more than Bethlehem could produce." He turned the surplus over to competitors. Bethlehem's orders have always been delivered on time, and this promptness was attested by the late Lord Kitchener.

Paralysis Case at Oklahoma U. OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Oct. 25.—Infantile paralysis has appeared at the University of Oklahoma in Norman. It was reported today to the State Health Commissioner here. Carl Price, a student, living in a fraternity house, developed the disease, according to the report.

Blacksnake Robbed Nests. APPLETON, Wis., Oct. 25.—Residents of College avenue, who have been troubled with the loss of many eggs from their chicken coops recently, were relieved when a large blacksnake was killed by Charles Hoppensberger just as it emerged from his chicken coop. It is believed that the snake escaped from a street carnival company.

Women Drivers in Collision. LONDON, Oct. 25.—Out of 10 collisions on the Cardiff tramway system, stated the manager, only three were in the cases of cars driven by women.

"Birdie," "Julie" and "Destie." PARIS, Oct. 25.—"Birdie," "Julie" and "Destie" are the French nicknames for three of their new big guns.

YOUTH CONVICTED OF KILLING MAN; GETS LIFE

Jury Finds Eugene Hamilton Guilty of Murder in the First Degree.

Eugene Hamilton, 19 years old, of 1337 South Ninth street, was sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of William B. Anderson in front of the Riverside Dancing Academy, 400 South Broadway, the night of May 7, last, at the conclusion of his trial last night in Circuit Judge Grimm's court. The jury returned a verdict of murder in the first degree and fixed the penalty.

Anderson was shot while he was standing with his wife and baby on the corner waiting for a car. They had attended a dance at the Riverside Academy. A group of young men standing on the corner used profane language and Anderson rebuked them, according to the evidence.

Immediately afterward Anderson was shot, the bullet entering near his heart. Hamilton and another youth, known as Mickey Dunn, who has never been apprehended by the police, were the youths who resented Anderson's rebuke. It was testified that the revolver with which Anderson was shot was found on a lot nearby.

Dies in Unoccupied House.

An unidentified man about 75 years old was found dead on the third floor of a vacant house at 1318 North Sixth street yesterday afternoon. Doctors at the morgue said that the man had evidently died from exposure.

WATCHMEN SHOOT TWO BOYS

Declare They Were Tampering With Freight Car Seals.

William Ellington, 15 years old, of 505 Talcott avenue, was shot in the right leg, and Joseph Rau, 16, of 1122 McKissock avenue, was shot in the right shoulder by private watchmen in the Terminal Railroad yards near Ellington's home last night.

The watchmen, Ralph Hare and Thomas Imboden, told the police that they had fired nine shots at six boys whom they caught tampering with two freight cars, the seals of which had been broken. Rau says he was standing on a street corner when he was shot. Ellington says he and Rau were shot as they were climbing through a string of cars to make a short cut to their homes.

Safety for Savings

You may have one or a hundred reasons for starting a savings account; that is immaterial. The most important consideration is to keep your savings where you know, beyond all question, they will be absolutely safe.

Boatmen's, the oldest bank in Missouri, has proved its enduring strength by successfully withstanding the financial crises of three-quarters of a century, including the critical Civil War period. It solicits your savings account on its clean record of serving St. Louisans honorably, consistently and well since 1847.

Boatmen's savings accounts are protected by Boatmen's own vast resources and permanency—and of course by the rigid laws and supervision under which present-day banks operate.

Many a Man Wants Just This Sort of Shoe

A stylish, practical, good looking shoe that is in every way as good as it looks. None of your dry, brittle leathers, oiled up and dressed up—good in the window and bad on the foot.

Good leather is scarce—price is about doubled. If you buy haphazard you are likely to get wax and finish in place of life in the leather.

That is why it will pay you to step into a Regal store—to have the Regal organization behind your shoes. Here is an institution that can't afford to fool anybody, or disappoint its customers just because this happens to be a bad year for good leather.

The shoe illustrated above is the Briton—the most popular last in the Regal line. A shoe of the English type—flat, heavy single sole—broad shank—low heel. Spaced stitching around vamp—invisible eyelets to top—pin-hole perforations across the tip—narrow backstay from heel-seat to top.

TELLS OF WIRELESS IN AMERICA FOR U-BOATS

Letter to Germany Intercepted Says Station Will Be on Intercepted German Ship.

QUINCY, Mass., Oct. 25.—Max Wietach, a machinist employed in this city who came to this country on the German steamer Willehad, now at New London, Conn., said here last night that he had recently written a letter to his brother, Gustav, who is in the German army. When informed of the contents of a letter intercepted in London and made public in cable dispatches, Wietach admitted that he was the author. He refused to make any explanation of the statement in the letter that the Willehad was to act within the three-mile limit as a telegraph station for submarines.

The following two letters, intercepted on their way to Germany, were made public in London yesterday. The first one from Max Wietach, 481 East Eighth street, South Boston, addressed to his brother, said:

"Dear Gustav: 'The Willehad sailed today. I am to stay here till the end of the war. The Willehad will act within the American three-mile limit as a telegraph station for submarines. She has four month's provisions aboard.'"

The second letter was from the Captain of the Willehad, named Jachens, who wrote from New London to his sister in Germany, saying:

"I rejoice I am now here as captain of the Willehad. The Kohn still lies at Boston. I am here with the Willehad on a special mission."

"Later you will hear more from me. I rejoice that I have done something for the Fatherland and that I still have more to do."

The North German Lloyd steamship Willehad, which took refuge in Boston soon after the beginning of the war, was taken to New London on Aug. 25 last under command of Capt. Jachens, and was tied up at the pier of the Eastern Forwarding Co., the American agent for the German submarine merchantmen. The Willehad was said to carry a full crew of German sailors. The wireless on the Willehad as well as on all other German and belligerent vessels in American ports was dismantled and sealed by customs officers soon after the beginning of the war.

The steamship Kohn also owned by the North German Lloyd reached Boston from Bremen, Aug. 11, 1914, after eluding British cruisers in the Atlantic. The Kohn is still tied up at Boston.

The Willehad as she now lies at New London is made fast to cluster piling fifty feet away from the pier. Between the ship and the dock is space of about fifty feet intended for the reception of the expected Bremen or other ships of the submarine merchant fleet. The space for a submarine is enclosed.

MAN SAYS WIFE THREW OIL ON HIM AND SET IT AFIRE

Woman is Held in Observation Ward at City Hospital—Denies His Story.

Joseph Moran, 30 years old, a teamster of 238A South Vandeventer avenue, is at the city hospital suffering from severe burns and his wife of two weeks is in the observation ward at the same institution while the police are investigating their conflicting accounts of how the husband was injured.

Moran told the police that his wife slipped up behind him in the kitchen at their home last night, threw gasoline upon him and set it afire. He said he thought she was temporarily insane.

Mrs. Moran said she and Moran were married two weeks ago on the day after they first met. She had escaped from a home for girls on Morgan street, she said, when Moran accosted her on the street. They were married next day but had quarreled frequently. Last night they were drinking whisky and beer with a strange man at their rooms, she declared, when she became enraged because her husband invited the stranger to stay all night there when they had insufficient accommodations for him. She went into another room, heard Moran scream and ran back to find his clothing ablaze. She denied that she set fire to him.

Garland's Suit Comfort—Style Satisfaction

The Suit Pictured Is Green Velvet With Badger Collar and Cuffs, $35

"If everybody knew the comfort and style satisfaction there is in your Suits, you wouldn't have to advertise." We think we have quoted the exact words of a customer as she was leaving our Suit Department, after buying two $35 Suits today.

She further added that she had purchased Suits in all the large cities in the country, until a couple of years ago, since which time she has not worn a Suit, either expensive or inexpensive, from any other store but Garland's.

We modestly smiled our thanks for the compliment, which was all the more gratifying because we knew the statement of the customer was literally true.

There's a Reason

Years of careful specializing in Women's and Misses' apparel, exclusively, and buying for "types." And because of our successful specializing and buying for types, seldom does a suit here require a general alteration.

Fur-Trimmed Velvet Suits

Priced Special for Friday

$24.50 and $35

Burgundy, Java and jungle brown, balsam green, hunters' green, taupe—could you ask for more in favorite colors to select from? And the rich fur trimmings. One of the $35 Suits has a massive collar of genuine badger which alone would cost half as much as we ask for the Suit. Another is trimmed in Scotch mole—another in Hudson seal—others in dyed coney, beaver, badger, skunk, etc.

And there are lots of Suits without fur, braid and buttons being most effectively used.

Broadcloth Suits—the highest quality, and velour and Duvelyn and Suede cloth, in all the wanted colors, with or without fur.

Coats on some are long, very long, others medium. All have a fancy flare and give the wearer a "dressed-up" air.

Daytime Coats

This season's Coat, voluminous and enveloping, answers every requirement, whether one wears a tailored serge frock or a filmy silk costume. A superb collection of models, suited to every type, is offered in a great variety of prices.

Many with collar and cuffs entirely of rich fur—genuine Seal, Opossum, Raccoon, Skunk, Scotch Mole.

EPISCOPALIANS WORK ON CHANGES IN PRAYER BOOK

Possible That Revision Will Have to Go Over Until Next Convention.

SESSION ENDS TOMORROW

Most Important Matter Completed So Far Has Been the New Hymnal.

The House of Deputies of the Protestant Episcopal general convention, in Moulton Temple, which is to adjourn tomorrow afternoon, resumed consideration of proposed changes in the prayer book this morning. It is now believed by many of the deputies, clergymen and laymen that the subject of prayer book changes will not be completed at this convention, and hence that the proposed new prayers and the eliminations and amendments will not be passed on by the House of Bishops before the next convention, at Detroit in 1919.

Washington's Prayer Changed.
The George Washington prayer, taken from Washington's farewell address to his army, and altered only so much as was necessary to make it conform to the church's prayers, was adopted as a part of the prayer book revision. It is as follows:

"Almighty God, we make our earnest prayer that Thou wilt keep the United States in Thy holy protection; that Thou wilt incline the heart of the citizens to cultivate a spirit of subordination and obedience to government; to entertain a brotherly affection and love for one another and for their fellow-citizens of the United States at large. And finally that Thou wilt most graciously be pleased to dispose us all to do justice, to love mercy and to demean ourselves with that charity, humility and pacific temper of mind which were the characteristics of the divine author of our blessed religion, and without an humble imitation of whose example in these things we can never hope to be a happy nation."

"Grant our supplication, we beseech Thee, through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen."

The changes made are the addition of the words "Almighty God" at the beginning, the changing of "I" to "we," and the addition of the paragraph at the end.

For Suffragan Bishops.
The Deputies adopted an amendment to the constitution, authorizing provincial Bishops to elect suffragan Bishops for any diocese in the province, to have authority over a particular area. This amendment, which is subject to the approval of the House of Bishops, and to the vote of the next general convention, would make possible the choice of negro Bishops, to work under the direction of white Bishops in established dioceses. A proposal for separate bishoprics, with independent negro Bishops presiding, was later defeated in the House of Bishops.

The convention, which has been in session since Oct. 11, has thus far adopted only one proposal of major importance. This is the new church hymnal, which both houses have approved. Other important proposals have been defeated or deferred. Observers of the convention's work are quoting the old saying that it takes nine years to get anything done in the Episcopal church. This is the time covered by three general conventions.

The Deputies voted to change the title of the declaration of abolition, in the service of morning prayer, from "an abolition to be said by the priest" to "a declaration of abolition to be said by the priest." The change is designed to remove the possible idea that the priest, of himself, has any power to absolve or forgive sin.

In the discussion of prayer book revision, late yesterday afternoon, the vexed question of auricular confession came up. The Episcopal Church, in most cases, does not sanction the confessional, which is an institution of the Roman Catholic Church, but certain high church congregations maintain the confessional box in their houses of worship.

Discussion on Confessional.
The confessional discussion was called forth by the presence, in the proposed revision of the prayer book, of the following rubric, to be in the order of Visitation of the Sick:

"Here shall the sick person be moved to make a special confession of his sins if he feel his conscience troubled with any matter; after which confession, the minister shall assure him of God's mercy and forgiveness."

Objections were raised to this rubric, on the ground that it introduced the practice of confession. A vote resulted in a tie, the vote being 18 to 18, and so the rubric remained in the commission's report, which will later, in this convention or the next one, be voted upon as a whole.

The deputies, however, voted to strike out the two rubrics which followed the one in question, and which provided that the sick person, "if he hath not before disposed of his goods, shall be admonished to make his will and to declare his debts, what he oweth and what is owing unto him, for the better discharging of his conscience and the quietness of his executors," and that the minister "shall not omit earnestly to move such sick persons as are of ability, to be liberal to the poor."

Referred to Commission.

Another question which involves a practice upheld by the Roman Catholic Church, but not in general favor with the Episcopal body, came up in a proposed prayer for the dead, which said, of a dead person: "O Lord, bring this thy servant into the place of peace and light and admit him to the fellowship of thy saints." Because of objections to this prayer, it was referred back to the commission on prayer book revision, for further consideration.

An executive session of the deputies was scheduled for this afternoon, to consider approval of the two missionary bishops elected yesterday by the House of Bishops.

These are the Rev. Dr. Frank H. Touret, rector of Grace Church, Colorado Springs, as bishop of Western Colorado, and the Rev. Dr. Hugh L. Burleson, editor of "Spirit of Missions," published in New York, as bishop of South Dakota.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

TESTING THE NATIONAL GUARD.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

So much of an authentic nature has been written about the national guard on the Texas border; so many are asking that their male relatives or friends be discharged that it seems opportune to let the public know something of another phase of the situation.

Responsible officers of the army, who have returned from Mexico, tell us that when the report reached the Mexican officials and army officers that the national guard was concentrating in all the States, and when they learned that they were arriving at the border in increasing numbers, there was a decided change in the attitude of the Mexican populace towards, not only the United States, but all foreigners.

Could the public appreciate the fact that the mobilization of the national guard on the Texas frontier has, so far and probably will, avert a war, with all its attendant suffering and cost, they would understand what the sacrifices made by the members of the national guard has, possibly and probably, saved them.

The press generally, as also the people, as a whole, have been crying for preparedness. The call came, the national guard responded and every member who is on the border is as surely doing his duty to his manhood and to his country as a whole as he would be doing if he were in daily skirmishes or pitched battles.

The men on the border, officers and enlisted men, regulars and national guardsmen are responding to the demand for preparedness—responding to the demands of the people for somewhere near adequate defense of the national guard, as a reliable and dependable force, is being put to the test. Are they to be counted on as such—it will depend upon the outcome of the next few months. Because they have had to undergo a very few hardships, hardships that would be laughed at in the present European campaign, they have seemed trivial during the Civil War, yet even in the concentration camps during the Spanish-American war, and because they have not been wisely rushed across the border to be made heroes or corpses of, they think the powers that be are at all times and in all places, and they are being kept there. Officers are sending in their resignations in increasing numbers, under all kinds of pretexts, many with absolutely no legitimate grounds on which to base their request. Following the example of the officers, many men are asking to be discharged, why, because they are now with the national guard, they are unwilling to make the necessary sacrifice to prepare themselves. They want enough men to be prepared, but want "George to do it." Again, those merchants at home who promised all kinds of inducements to get their men to go, during the hysterical stage, and now with the drawing their premises. Why, because their employees have been killed or maimed—or is it from a selfish motive—"go to it good fellows, you are brave, patriotic, noble, but don't interfere with my business."

Yes, the national guard is being put to the test and those who have no certain that they would stand the test are beginning to doubt the wisdom of their former sayings. If this exodus of soldiers continues, if the political pressure to get men out is kept up, the national guard surely will go down and then, in desperation, the country will be forced to turn to the only logical solution—universal service, or at least universal education and, if necessary, draft. If the disgruntled men, the pampered ones who wanted to be heroes, but who cannot stand the "grit" of training, if the fond parents or the greedy employers have enough political pull to get them out so they can escape, why should others without pull remain?

Have we, as a nation, lost our virility—are we men or are we molasses?—are we only willing to play the game when we can boss and make the constituted authorities do as we think for the moment we want to do, or must a few strong men make the lead and force us to change our scheme of government—to go to compulsory service. The answer rests largely with the people back home. Until the question at issue between the United States and Mexico are settled, or until intervention takes place, a large force of national guard must be maintained along the border for use in case of necessity. Those that are retained must be kept up to the standard as regards numbers, else they will deteriorate as to efficiency.

Members of the national guard, officers and enlisted men, who formerly thought that a body of patriotic men could be trained to be soldiers in a month or so, now appreciate the fact that it takes nearly, if not, a full year of hard work to make soldiers out of new men.

In case it should be necessary to finally intervene, would it not be better for those who would respond to a call, to join the national guard now and prepare themselves so they could not only do their part, but would be better able to care for themselves?

In case anyone would respond to a call within the next six months or a year now is the time to join a command on the border, if possible, in order to get the benefit of the training to be obtained by associating with those already trained and in the field. A month with the troops who have been on the border since July will be more beneficial than two years training at armories in home cities.

Battery A will, it is believed, remain on the border for two months more at least. Due to discharges for physical disability and expiration of terms of active service, it now has only 131 men, whereas its war strength is 168 men. It needs 37 men, and would like to have them at once in order that they may receive all the training possible.

Do you believe in preparedness—that is, for yourself? If so, and you possibly can, prepare yourself to do a man's part by joining now.

P. M. HUBBOLD,
Captain Missouri Field Artillery, Commanding
Battery A.

HUGHES AND THE HYPHEN.

In his telegram of acceptance sent to Chicago a few moments after he had divested himself of his judicial office, Mr. Hughes wrote: "We do not intend to tolerate any division of allegiance."

He did not pursue the subject. Aside from cheap platitudes, no syllable as explicit as this on one of the great questions of the campaign had come from him until his speech in New York City Tuesday night. In that speech he made these statements:

If anyone supposes that in case of my election the right and interests of American citizens will be subordinated to any ulterior purpose or to the interest of the policies of any foreign power whatever, he is doomed to disappointment.

We shall not tolerate the use of our soil for foreign intrigue.

I do not want the support of anyone who has any interest superior to that of the United States.

He added that any who would not instantly champion the rights and interests of America against any country whatever, or who would have the power of this nation swayed by alien machinations should not vote for him.

Were those who demanded an embargo on American trade to foreign ports championing the rights and interests of America? Or were they looking to the welfare of some other country? Were the rights and interests of America or those of some other country being championed by these same embargo advocates when they insisted after the Lusitania horror that America should surrender all rights on the ocean except such as Germany felt bound to respect?

These and others even demanded the passage by Congress of a law denying the right of Americans to travel on peaceful merchant ships. Would they have served America's welfare or that of a foreign country?

If Mr. Hughes is to be taken seriously he repudiates and forfeits by his own act the support of all those who were angered at Mr. Wilson because he denied the use of our soil for foreign intrigues and sent some of the intriguers home in disgrace. He repudiates and forfeits by his own act the support of all angered at Mr. Wilson because he would not consent to a senseless embargo on exports that would have ruined American trade.

He repudiates and forfeits the support of all angered at Mr. Wilson because he declined to recognize in the high seas a German lake.

Assuming that what Mr. Hughes now says is to be taken seriously, why was it that the supporters now rejected were solicitous above all other supporters for Mr. Hughes' nomination at Chicago? Why since the convention and up to the date of Mr. Hughes' Tuesday night speech have they urged with a persistency above that of other supporters that Mr. Hughes should be elected?

These are brave words from Mr. Hughes at the eleventh hour, but why has he been silent for more than four months? By private agreement he inserted in his speeches sentiments highly gratifying to the Jeremiah A. O'Leary group in New York. Has another insistent group in his heterogeneous, nondescript following acted on the suggestion and forced another private arrangement by which passages representative of their sentiments shall also be inserted in his speeches?

Does Mr. Hughes mean what he says or is he only pussyfooting as he has pussyfooted in the past? If he means it, who can tell but what he is pussyfooting and if he is pussyfooting who can be sure he does not mean what he says?

Who can vote for him with any reliable assurance as to what he will do or where he stands? "Squirting vitriol" isn't good targeting, even in a political campaign.

ANOTHER AUSTRIAN CASUS BELLI.

Will Austria content herself with prosecuting the assassin of Premier Stuerghk? The last time one of the great personages of her official life perished by assassination Austria could not see any satisfying atonement in the mere arrest and punishment of the murderers. She started a war over it and contrived to involve all Europe in the offense against her own domestic criminal code.

It may be, of course, that she would not look upon the killing of a mere Premier in exactly the same light in which she looked upon the killing of a Crown Prince. And then again, it is possible that Austria has now on her hands just about all the war she can conveniently handle.

30-A-WEEK MINIMUM FOR WOMEN.

The announcement that woman employees of the Ford Motor Car Co. are to be included among the beneficiaries of the $5-minimum-wage system is the public's first intimation that they have heretofore been excluded. It was assumed as a matter of course that a skilled girl stenographer would be as much entitled to the $5 wage as a laborer in the assembling department.

But the fact that justice is done somewhat tardily to these feminine employees is none the less reason for congratulating the 400 women at the main factory and the several hundred at branch factories whose pay was increased on Oct. 10 to at least $30 a week. Like the original institution of the minimum wage and the eight-hour day by this company, it is a practical object lesson whose influence will be felt through a wide radius. The company managers declare that it must not be regarded as a philanthropic experiment. Their belief that it recognizes an economic principle whose value will be demonstrated in practical results will be shared by many observers.

All the feminine employees more than 21 years of age and all less than 21 on whom others are dependent will be entitled to the new scale. And aside from prejudice and the tenacity of custom and old ways of thinking, is there any reason why a woman of the same effectiveness should not receive the same pay as a man?

One of the byproducts of this Ford concern is its instructive tests from laboratory experiments.

tion on industrial policy. The formulae which it is suggesting for solving sociological problems, and particularly difficult problems affecting the relations of employers and employees, are helpful. The country should have more such laboratories.

CITY NOMINATIONS BY PETITION.

The proposed charter amendment changing city election methods leaves some details to be arranged by the ordinance of the Municipal Assembly. However, it contains rather minute provisions describing the new system and putting its machinery in effect.

The general election law now permits candidates to get a place on the ballot by petition, but the provision is not often used. Under the new system all nominations for city offices will be made by petition. The only executive officers elected by the people under the charter's short ballot feature are the Mayor, Comptroller and President of the Board of Aldermen. Any qualified citizen may become a nominee for these positions by presenting a petition signed by one per cent of the total vote in the last prior election—1400 or 1500 signatures.

The method of naming Aldermen is interesting as introducing an idea new to St. Louis. Nominations are to be made in groups by filing "lists" of candidates which may contain any number of names not exceeding the total number of Aldermen to be voted for, which number except when vacancies are to be filled is 14. The idea seems to be that each party will agree on a list of candidates and file the list as its nominees. Voters dissatisfied with the list representing their party may file other lists, but the name of the same candidate cannot appear on more than one list.

At the polls the voter may not make up a selective group by marking candidates on several lists. He must confine himself to the candidates of some one list or ticket and if any of the candidates are unacceptable to him he must take the trouble to write in substitutes. Of course, a list containing the name of only one candidate might be filed, provided it was accompanied by the signatures of the usual one per cent of all the electorate. But the citizen who wished to vote for more than one candidate on the list would be obliged to write in the other 13 names.

Lists are to be designated only by number on the ballot. Which one is to be printed first and the order in which others are to be printed remains to be determined by ordinance. Which list is to be given the preference when two or more lists contain the name of the same candidate or candidates also remains to be determined by ordinance.

Nothing designating the politics of Aldermanic or other candidates may appear on ballots. This wise feature for weakening political influences in the choice of city servants is supplemented by other interesting features in the system.

American aeroplane guns that shoot front and rear at once are going to take part in the great war. These are of the only sort of peacemakers to which the battling nations are yet ready to listen.

NO HIGH PRICE LEGISLATION.

Advertisements in St. Louis street cars directly charge the Democratic administration with the high cost of living. This is not likely to deceive any thinking individual. The fact that no one can point to a single act of legislation which has resulted in an increase of the price of any necessity is the best answer to the charge. As a matter of fact, through the income tax, the Democratic party has taken from the masses and placed upon wealth, wherever found, the burden of providing nearly $100,000,000 of the revenue needed for Government expenses.

No Republican administration ever did that while it often has, through legislation, raised the prices of many commodities.

Potato bread may be delicious, but will a people who do not yet realize the importance of cooking potatoes with the jackets on attempt anything like bread with potatoes?

GRASSHOPPER SANDWICHES.

A hero undisputed is Mr. Chester Bliss of Sandusky, who is personally demonstrating the edibility of the grasshopper, and smacking his lips over its nutty flavor. Mr. Bliss, first catching his grasshopper, removes its head and wings, toasts it over a slow fire and seasons it with pepper and salt. It will not appeal to you, gentle reader, but it is a very ancient and respectable diet. Do you recall the scriptural locust and wild honey? * * * Mr. Bliss likes the locust in a sandwich.

Why strain at a grasshopper and swallow the cochineal, or the crawfish, the snail, the shrimp, not to mention the crab and the oyster? Not forgetting the eel, the terrapin, the turtle, the succulent frog.

The early Hebrews lived upon locusts to no small extent long before John the Baptist's day. Moses specified four insects of the locust family which they might eat without rendering themselves unclean. (Leviticus 10, 22). Locusts cooked with oil are esteemed a delicacy to this day in the Orient. Locusts are a favorite marching diet with the Bedouin Arab, who packs them in salt in close masses. The Athenians were fond of roasted locusts in the days when Athenians were epicures, and the archmagistrus, or master-of-the-house, turned them in his oven to a beautiful golden hue. Epicurus the Athenian had a nice taste when he nibbled between strips of the lightest Attic wine. Lucullus would have his grasshoppers. To gourmet, gastronomer and naturalist the grasshopper has universally appealed. It is so that it is only a heretism somewhat less than Spartan required for enjoyment of the morsel.

Come, along, then, brave men at table, let us salute the long-legged locust redivivus in classic style—as the uncouth pig was apostrophized:

And now that he has felt the crisping fire
We wait his soul and body to enshrine.
A morsel for an epicure's desire * * *
Seasoned to tickle gourmand taste
And to a tomb within us haste * * *

We eat thee, brother, and incorporate
Thy substance, thus, in our humanity.

MR. ANTWERP ON SUBSEQUENT EXPLANATIONS.

"I WONDER what the Republicans will decide was wrong with their campaign?" Mr. Antwerp asked. "They are great fault finders, and when they get the news of Mr. Wilson's reelection they will naturally seek the fault in themselves."

"Mr. Hughes will come in for most of the blame. He will be charged with having made a dunder-headed campaign. People will rise to predict that the Republican party will never again trust its standard to one who has been actively retired from public life. Col. Roosevelt will be accused of having estranged the hyphens from the Republicans for the purpose of political revenge. The Progressives will be charged with bad faith and secret connivance at Democratic victory. Messrs. Barnes, Penrose, Smoot and Crane will be taxed with having wrecked the Republican party by thrusting themselves into control at a time when there was no sense in letting the Democrats win. Col. Roosevelt will taunt the party for not having accepted him as its leader and gone into power with a whoop."

"That row will end the Republican party. The Progressives will go out of the party for good. Many of them will become Democrats, and many others will attempt to rehabilitate the Progressive party. The Republican organization will go to pieces. The big interests which have kept that party for so many years are not going to back a loser. They will take up the Democratic party and try to corrupt it."

"Mr. Wilson has brought about this great upheaval in American politics. He has taken the old one gallus and bagpanted Democratic party at a time when the Republican party was disintegrating and made of it a living and moving progressive force. There is more power and vision in the Democratic party today than there has been in any American party in 50 years. There is so much that the old broadheads like Mr. Bryan and Secretary Daniels are no longer at home in it. Mr. Wilson alone has brought about this great change. A modern of moderns, a democrat of democrats, he has pushed the Republican party deeper into the mire of its own iniquity with one hand while he has lifted the Democratic party out of the past with the other. He is so much bigger than his party that one cannot see his party for him. Like Lincoln and Washington, he is as big as his country."

"They cannot beat Mr. Wilson, for in beating him this country would be beating itself. He has broken up all parties to make a new party keeping step with the times. We are seeing history made in this country by a great man. Not even politics can make us blind."

Will Mr. O'Leary's bull also take its place in history?

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

BEAUTY CULTURE.

MISS FLO.—Walnut husks make a brown, or black, eventually, according to the frequency with which it is applied. Obtain green husks. A quart jar should be loosely packed and then filled to the top with alcohol. This is covered tightly and stands for a week. At the end of that time the liquid is strained off, pressing through a bit of muslin. The husks are covered with cold water, and put on to simmer until the mass is thick and pulpy, when it is again strained. The two liquids, when cold, are mixed together. The stain is applied to the hair evenly with a soft brush after shampooing.

YOURS TRULY.—Pimples: Practice deep-breathing of pure air and exercise all muscles. Dr. Gancher of Paris advises little or no medication, and insists stomach needs as much attention as skin itself. Sauces, rich desserts, stews, fish, canned goods, tomatoes, fried, greasy meats, cabbage, sausage, macaroni and all fermented substances should be avoided. A few drops of milk of magnesia every few hours or one or two teaspoons at each meal is advisable. Then two ounces glycerin, with heaping teaspoon precipitated sulfur, mixed with four ounces camellia water; face is anointed every night with this and once or twice daily a few minutes. (Lemon Juice is astringent.)

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

F. S.—Persimmons may be kept by putting them down in layers of sawdust. They will dry like raisins. They should be nicely washed or rinsed in a colander, all stems, etc., carefully picked off and the fruit perfectly dry before laying in rows in the boxes with granulated sugar between.

BERTA.—Salt-rising bread (the celebrated Gov. Stubbs recipe). The starter: At night take half cup corn meal and small pinch of sugar and salt each; add with new milk heated to boiling point and mix to thickness of mush; make this up in the cup; wrap in a clean cloth and put in warm place overnight. The sponge—in morning take a gallon stone jar and in this put one scant cup new milk; add level spoon salt and one of sugar; add this with three cups water heated to boiling point. Get a milk thermometer if you wish to have success; reduce temperature to 100 degrees; add cold water; then add flour and mix to a good batter, and lastly mix in the "starter." Cover with plate. Put this batter into a large kettle of water and keep this water at a temperature of 100 degrees. The bread rises to the top of the water at least an inch and a half. When it has risen, mix to a stiff dough and make the loaves and put into pans. Do not let the heat out of the dough while working. Grease your loaves with lard and set your bread where it will be warm. Use small single granite pans for baking. After the loaves are baked in a medium oven one hour and 10 minutes. After taking loaves from oven wrap well in bread cloth.

There are four stanzas, the fourth running: "Some walls do not a prison make. Nor iron bars a cage. Minds innocent and quiet take that for their prison: which is a wall whereof no surmise. If I have freedom in my love, That freedom grows a sort of jail. Angels alone, that near above, Enjoy that liberty." "Dark rings under eyes show that the body, in one way or another, is being overtaxed by worry, or that the physical system is deranged. Lack of rest, late hours, or an irregularity of the kidneys will bring these gray, heavy lines. Drink plenty of water every day; get out of doors regularly; look after the diet and get to bed early. Bathe frequently with cold water and use friction. A little turpentine rubbed into the skin, or a part of diluted ammonia to four of water, may be rubbed into the skin. It does not reach the eyes. Health Culture says: "Toiled, or overworked, or over-stressed, a long time and well thinned with water and eaten at every meal, is a simple cure for dark circles under the eyes, by lessening the acid in the blood."

HARRIS.—The moon, which has no light of its own, reflects the light of the sun as it shines upon it. As the moon moves in its course a greater portion reflects the light of the sun, and makes it visible to the earth. Plots of Immortal Fiction Masterpieces

THE NIHILISTS; by Alfredo Oriani.

THERE were four of them in the plot. And of them all Loris alone was dangerous.

Prince Vladimir was a Nihilist because he thought his wife was falling in love with the Czar, and he was goaded on by jealous rage. Lemm was a professional conspirator, mainly useful as a cat's paw. Olga had pledged herself to the scheme because she adored Loris—who cared nothing for her.

Loris was a true fanatic. His fellow Nihilists had killed the Czar's father—Alexander II. And now they were trying to kill Czar Alexander III. Loris had a plan for achieving this. He presented his idea to the Executive Committee of Nihilists. They rejected it, and he decided to carry it out on his own account.

His plan was simple—and terrible. He intended to blow up the Moscow Opera House on the night of a gala performance, when not only the Czar and his family, but all the highest nobles in Russia would be destroyed in a single blow. Incidentally thousands of innocent folk would perish, which mattered not at all to Loris.

Prince Vladimir secured for him 60 pounds of melinite. Loris, with the help of Lemm and Olga, smuggled this explosive in batches into the Opera House, and hid it under the imperial box.

Fulminate caps and electric wires were attached to the melinite, and the main wire was carried underground to a room Loris had hired across the street from the opera.

The work was performed done with the greatest caution. Almost by a miracle it was at last completed without arousing the suspicion of the police. One touch of an electric button in Loris' room would blow the whole opera house to atoms.

"This deed shall make me the undisputed master of all the nobility in the empire," boasted Loris. "Then I shall lead my horde of patriots to the revolution that must complete the work. I shall stamp out aristocracy, and be a ruler of a new Russia."

Prince Vladimir smiled happily. Now he would be avenged on the Czar for trying to win his wife from him. Lemm, too, was well pleased. There would be rare pickings for him. Olga shuddered with horror at thought of the carnage. But she loved Loris too ardently to refuse her aid in the preparations.

At last came the gala night of the opera. Loris in his room stood beside the electric button tensely waiting a signal from Prince Vladimir that the Czar had seated himself in the imperial box. Beside him were Olga and Lemm. Suddenly Vladimir burst into the room, ghastly pale and trembling.

"We cannot go on with this!" he shouted. "I have just seen my daughter enter the opera house. She had promised me to stay at home. It is too late now to warn her."

Loris made no reply. He merely put out his hand toward the electric button.

"No! No!" wailed the Prince. "She must not die. She is my only child. She is all the world to me."

"You place her safety above Russia's?" sneered Loris.

"We can wait," began the Prince, "until another—"

"Revolutions cannot be postponed," Loris interrupted. "Because of your wife you helped us. Now, because of your daughter, you would ruin us."

Ignoring the groveling and weeping Prince, he pressed the electric button. No explosion followed. Again and again, in growing frenzy, Loris pressed the button. No result. He looked up to see Olga stealing back into the room from the hallway. And he understood the reason for his failure.

"You have cut the wire!" he howled, rushing toward her. "To save a girl you never saw, you have—"

Olga fell on her knees to plead for mercy. But before she could speak Loris whipped out a revolver and shot her dead. The Prince flung himself upon the murderer and disarmed him. "Maniac!" gasped Vladimir. "What have you done?" "I have punished a traitor," replied Loris simply. "And now let us be going. There is nothing further to keep us here."

Use for Old Soft Felt Hats.
To make bedroom slippers for children, cut out soles one inch longer than child's foot; now cut out a small portion lengthwise from the instep, saw up the seam and press; saw up backs of uppers, press, turn inside out and sew on soles; turn back and cut narrow slits around the top edge, insert narrow ribbon, make bow in front. They wear well, are warm and are inexpensive.

Cooking Vegetables.
ALWAYS cook green vegetables in an uncovered kettle (this preserves their fresh, green color), and in seasoning after they are drained be as liberal as possible with the butter. Two or three tablespoons of thick cream added with the butter is a still greater improvement, and pepper and salt should be added.

Queer Garb of Rumanians

THE Wallachian peasant who has not adopted the homely clothes that come from the ready-to-wear factories of Western Europe is a picturesque dressed man. His costume is white. The trousers are something like twice the length of the leg, and are made to fit with numerous wrinkles; his shirt is made to hang tunic-like over his trousers and is gathered at the waist with a red belt; his coat is a sort of military cape, usually of brown woolens or of tanned leather.

The peasant woman usually grows some silk. She buys the silk-worm eggs and uses the spare bed, if there be one in the house, as a hatchery. She feeds the worms on mulberry leaves, and, if the ants do not invade the place and destroy the worms, she soon has enough fiber for a veil or a waist. She spins and weaves it herself. She has a keen appreciation of color values and combinations. She embroiders her dresses with thread she has grown from the seed—so you can tie the rope and thus hold down the net all around and under the body of the carriage so the baby

A Fine Baby-Tender.

It has five advantages. It can be easily moved from room to room, to piazza or into the yard; can be in the living room, dining room or anywhere to suit the mother's convenience. The baby is safe, cannot fall out of it. The baby is free to move about in it and play with its playthings. It gives the baby a variety of scenes by being near a window or away from it. In the sun or out of it. And it has one advantage over some human baby tenders in that it does not worry the baby with talk or any disturbing influence. Get a large piece of fish net such as fishermen use as a seine to catch fish. Raise the top of your baby carriage and put the fish net over the top and body of the carriage, covering the whole thing. Just a Wife (Her Diary)

Chapters From a Bride's Life-Story.

Edited by Janet Trevor.

CHAPTER LXXXII.

NOV. 25.—"I have a position promised me whenever I will take it," Patty explained. "Today I must look for a smaller, more inexpensive apartment and one near a day nursery."

"Patty, you wouldn't leave the children in such a place?" I protested. "You and Tom and Babetta must come and stay with me until you have time to look about and find some arrangement that suits you better. I'd love to have you all for weeks—months."

"Yes, but your husband wouldn't care for it," said Patty quietly. "He likes you immensely," I argued. "He said this morning that he wanted you and Mr. Kane to come to dinner very soon."

"He would like to have me come with my husband," she repeated with a queer little smile. "But he will not want me to come alone. I am afraid he will want you to come and see me. Men are like that!"

"There is a lawyer, a Mr. Olney," she explained, "for whom I have done extra work for a fortnight. He has assumed that I am a widow, and three days ago offered me a regular job at a decent salary in his office. He said he never employed another typist who knew how to spell."

"I told him I'd consider his offer, for I realized that any day Dan was likely to learn about my work and to take some such course as he has taken. The crisis came yesterday. I should prefer not to tell you the manner of its coming," and Patty looked away. "It wasn't—well, dignified," she added in low tones.

"Dan went away last night, and before I slept I mailed an acceptance of Mr. Olney's offer. I begin work Monday. Today I'm going to hunt for a place to live. The day nursery won't hurt the babies; they'll probably receive more scientific care than I can give them. 'Here they are,' and Patty took me a few steps down the hall to the nursery, where the youngsters played happily together.

"Will you, like an angel, keep your eye on them till I return?" their mother implored. "I'll be back before dinner."

"Of course, dear," I promised. I suppose some women would have tried to lecture Patty. But I knew that she was doing only what she felt she must do and there seemed to be nothing I could say."

All day long I played with those blessed children, and prayed that their future might be safe and happy. At 5 o'clock Patty returned, tired but triumphant. She had found exactly the apartment she wanted, and could move into it at once. I promised to help her get settled—"If your husband doesn't mind"—she inserted, carefully. "I'm waiting, now, for Ned to come home, for I know he'll want to do something to help Patty and her babies."

A Use for Candy Tongs.

THE little tongs of thin metal that come with boxes of candy often lie around unused. They may be used for holders in a summer camp or bungalow. Bend out the ends at right angles to the sides, about one inch from the tips, and through these bent-out ends drive nails into the wooden walls. Useful holders for scissors and other articles in living room or kitchen or for toothbrush in bunk rooms.

M'DANIEL TRIAL GOES OVER UNTIL AFTER THE ELECTION

Prosecuting Attorney of Buchanan County Charged With Murder. Is Candidate for Re-Election. ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Oct. 26.—The fate of Oscar D. McDaniel, Prosecuting Attorney of Buchanan County, charged with the murder of his wife, will not be decided until after the November election, at which he is a candidate for re-election. The case was continued yesterday to the November term of court.

Judge Ryan ruled that the venire already empaneled had been influenced so that an impartial trial was impossible, by an alleged interview, published here, which quoted John T. Barker, Attorney-General of Missouri, and head of the prosecution, as having said: "The State has been 'jobbed' in the selection of this jury."

The alleged charges made by Barker were ordered investigated by Judge Ryan.

FELL FROM LOFT; HURT; THEN WELL

How a Man Who Landed On Wood Pile and Was Sore From Head to Foot Found Quick Relief.

Once upon a time Edwin Putnam, who lives in the quiet, pretty hamlet of Wendell Depot, Mass., climbed up into a loft to get some building material, just as many another man living in the country must often do. Suddenly he slipped and fell. Ten feet below was a pile of wood, knotted and gnarled. It was a nasty tumble, and Mr. Putnam was injured painfully in the back, he was covered with bruises, and was sore from head to foot.

The next day he bought a bottle of Sloan's Liniment which had been recommended to him. Within a very few hours the soreness had vanished and the lameness had disappeared. He was an active man once more.

Sloan's Liniment can be obtained at all drug stores, 25c, 50c and $1.00.

HUGHES ASKS FOR THE SUPPORT OF "YOUNG AMERICA"

Criticises Democratic Preparedness Program as Inadequate in Speech at Brooklyn.

TALKS OF NAVY'S NEEDS

Says Addition to Army Would Have Made Militia Call Unnecessary.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Charles E. Hughes last night told an audience in the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, why, in his opinion, the young men of the nation should support the Republican ticket at the next election. Five chief reasons were cited in answer to the question:

"What sort of country does young America, vibrant with patriotism, desire?"

Hughes answered the question, in part, as follows:

"1. He wants a country respected throughout the world. He wants a country which respects the dignity of its citizenship."

"2. Young America must desire a country that is prepared for every emergency."

"3. Young America, looking ahead, must desire that when peace is once more restored, we shall contribute to its maintenance by doing our proper share to secure a practicable and effective international organization in the interests of peace."

"4. Young America wants government in the open by 'visible constitutional instruments, not by unofficial spokesmen or invisible authority. He also wants a Government not sectional, but truly national."

"5. Young America wants industrial preparedness."

Criticises Army Bill. In citing his second reason, Hughes assailed the administration for lacking in preparedness, referred to "manifest defects" in the army reorganization bill, declared that the Navy Department has "incapable leadership" and touched on a recommendation by Secretary Garrison in June, 1914, that the regular army be filled to its "full strength," a recommendation, Hughes said, that has been ignored.

"I am informed upon competent authority," Hughes said, "that had there been the addition to the regular army then desired by Secretary Garrison it would not have been necessary to send our national guard to the border."

In discussing the administration's alleged failure to prepare, Hughes said: "The President informed Congress in December, 1914, that the administration would not change its attitude because some among us are 'nervous and excited.' It was said that the 'country had been misled; that the administration had not been negligent of national defense.' This was four months after the outbreak of the European war and nearly eight months after Vera Cruz."

"What is needed on the part of the administration was no cessation, but the business-like action demanded by the condition of the times. One of the very few strong men the President gathered about him left the Cabinet rather than be responsible for seriously mistaken policy."

"I cannot now review the army reorganization bill and its manifest defects. I must content myself with saying that I believe that we should have a regular army large enough for the ordinary military demands in the absence of grave national exigencies and that our first citizen reserve should be trained and controlled by Federal authority. In the administration of the Navy Department we have had incapable leadership. The young men of the country cannot fail to take a special interest in these matters. We propose to have adequate preparedness and the efficiency of administration which is its indispensable condition."

Hall Is Crowded.

The audience Hughes faced filled every available foot of space in the big building.

Hughes had prepared his speech in advance, but did not adhere closely to its phraseology. Frequently after outbursts of cheering he departed from his prepared text to review more fully the point he was discussing.

"The burden of war would fall upon young America, and young America desires peace," he said, in discussing America's place in the future. "But young America must desire that it be a lasting peace, a peace maintained through self-respect, conserved by a firm and insistent maintenance of American rights. If you want peace, take counsel of your principles, not of your fears."

"How idle it is to talk in general terms about the opportunities of America abroad and at the same time withdraw from American citizens the protection to which they are entitled, and which they must have or American enterprise will languish."

"I am a man of peace. I have been devoted all my life to the institutions for the peaceful settlement of controversies. I know, however, that rights do not continue to be rights unless they are maintained. I know further that you cannot have the respect of others unless you respect yourself. I know that applies as well to nations as to individuals. I know that the most dangerous threat to our peace is to spread the idea abroad that if we are pressed, if we are trampled upon, if our rights are ignored, that there will be no vindication of those rights."

"When it is said that the policy of the administration is a policy of peace, I am filled with amazement at the audacity of the assertion because we had, right at our border, an unexampled opportunity for the display of correct methods in dealing with international questions. Instead of a policy of peace."

Wants Trade Protected.

"Young America, looking upon the future, taking account of a time when many of us will not be here, but the character of which will largely depend upon what we do while we are here, must certainly desire the maintenance of our conditions and our rights to the end that we will go forward expanding our trade, taking advantage of every opportunity for legitimate enterprise; and that wherever the flag floats the American will feel safe beneath it and every other citizen of every other country will recognize with respect its sense of justice, its moral and its physical power."

In speaking of the army reorganization bill, Hughes declared that "a large army on paper is a small army in fact." He called attention to the appropriations voted for the Navy Department, and asked:

"How are these appropriations to be spent? Under whose leadership are they to be spent?"

The answer came from the audience in a roar.

"It is perfectly idle," the nominee continued, "after a long period of delay, under conditions which showed the necessity for a proper activity, to attempt to cover past delinquencies by vast appropriations. These appropriations themselves direct attention to the necessity of businesslike management in our Navy Department."

"We want, if these monies are to be spent wisely, the ablest and most efficient leadership in these great arms of the service which can be commanded."

"We need today, and I shall not go into detail, but it is perfectly obvious that we need aeroplanes, fast scout cruisers; that we need submarines and torpedo boat destroyers. If we are to protect our coasts from a blockade, we must have proper consideration in the navy of organization and of personnel. We must have less attention to punctation, and more to target practice."

Declaring that "young America wants to be busy, wants work and abundance of it," the nominee spoke at length of his protective tariff views.

"Our friends on the other side," he said, "told us that they were going to hit that old enemy, the high cost of living. The high cost of living was said to be the ill-gotten offspring of the Republican party. Now that same off-spring, a little higher, is in its own father's home."

"We have today to deal with the higher cost of living. We haven't to deal with it, I should not say that, for it is true that they did give American enterprise a new size and a new speed, only it was reduced size and slower speed."

Tells of Unemployment.

"After our friends put their principle into process, we had throughout the country an extraordinary condition of unemployment. Why, there was not a city in the land where the great problem of municipal administration was not the problem of taking care of hundreds of alert and able-bodied American citizens who couldn't get work. In Gary, Ind., the most remarkable place in the United States, where they developed in a very few years a great industrial community with wonderful plants, there were soup houses 30 months ago.

"They had their plants and they had their men, but they did not have the work. The work was buried in the Underwood bill."

"We know what that policy means; what have we got to do? Why, we have the equivalent today, to a very large degree, of a prohibitive tariff erected by the European war. A great high wall, almost a Chinese wall, because of the conditions on the other side. But you cannot, as I have said, forget that when that wall falls down you have the men on the other side returning to production."

Hughes reiterated his declaration that he wanted to see a Republican majority in the next Congress, and urged the support of William M. Calder, the Republican senatorial nominee. This speech was, perhaps, the longest of the Hughes campaign. He spoke for an hour and 20 minutes.

How to Judge a Woman by Her Hair

There are always the well-known and semi-humorous methods, such as saying brunettes are quick-tempered. But there is real common sense in just noticing whether the hair is well kept to judge a woman's neatness. If you are one of the few who try to make the most of your hair, remember that is not advisable to wash the hair with any cleanser made for all purposes, but always use some good preparation made expressly for shampooing. You can enjoy the very best by getting some canthox from your druggist and dissolving a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water when your shampoo is all ready. After its use the hair dries rapidly with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its luster and softness will also delight you, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.—ADV.

TWO WOMEN KILLED IN FIRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Two young women were killed in a fire which wrecked a factory building in East Houston street, last night, causing property damage estimated at about $100,000. Sensational rescue were made by police and firemen who went to the aid of a score of men and women trapped on the roof of the seven-story building. According to the police, the two known victims were killed in jumping from the roof of the burning building to a tenement house adjoining. Firemen were trying to rescue them when they jumped.

TELEPHONING FAKE
DEATH NOTICES

Newspapers, Undertakers, Florists and Women Doctors Annoyed by Messages.

A woman who has been telephoning fake death notices and society items to some of the St. Louis newspapers was trapped this morning about 10 o'clock in a store at 1704 Market street and arrested by two detectives sent in an automobile from police headquarters.

She had called up the Globe-Democrat and said she wished to insert a death notice. The clerk recognized her voice, told her to wait about 15 minutes, as the man to whom she wanted to talk was busy. The woman hung up the phone. The clerk traced the telephone number, telephoned the proprietor to detain the woman and then telephoned the police.

She gave her name as Nellie Quinlan, but later said she was Mrs. Nellie Weber, 27 years old, of 2106 Eugenia street. She said her husband was William Weber, a switchman.

Undertakers Amazed. For some time newspapers, florists, undertakers and women doctors have been annoyed by a woman calling them up to insert death notices, society items, send floral wreaths and officiate at births.

Mrs. Weber told Chief Allender that she had not done so as a joke but that she just imagined persons were dying or being born. She said her husband left her about six months ago and that a month later she became a mother. Since then she had felt she was in a very nervous and unusual state.

Two weeks ago last Saturday, just before the afternoon papers went to press on an edition, she called up the Arthur Donnelly Undertaking Co., Twenty-first and Wash. streets, and told Donnelly with a sobbing voice that her sister, Corinne O'Donnell, of 2135 Clark street, was dead. At her request Donnelly telephoned the death notice to the Post-Dispatch and then sent an embalmer to the O'Donnell home. When the embalmer got there he found the O'Donnell woman in good health. Donnelly then telephoned the Post-Dispatch to cancel the notice.

John K. Murrell, Fourteenth and Market streets, an undertaker, when phoned, also sent an embalmer to the O'Donnell home. Young, the florist, sent two huge floral pieces. Meantime a Mrs. Beckman, a midwife, at 1835 Park avenue, had been telephoned, and she, too, arrived. Later in the day, friends, having seen the death notice in the paper, crowded the house with a view of paying last respects.

A fake "death notice" of Mrs. William Bewig, 45 years old, of 2115 Clark avenue, "beloved wife of Charles Bewig and sister of Mrs. Charles Roland and Tony and Katherine Cinnocchio," also was telephoned to the newspapers, as was the one of John Gorman of 1110 Clark avenue, a switchman. A large crowd of Gorman's friends gathered at his home on reading the notice.

Other friends and unknown persons have been annoyed by notices that have been sent to the newspapers saying they were either visiting in Alton or Belleville or in other places.

The case will be laid before the Prosecuting Attorney, though it is possible the woman can only be charged with a general disturbance of the peace. Mrs. Weber lives with her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Quinlan, at the Eugenia street address.

U. S. GETS KICKED, T. R. SAYS

Too Proud to Fight Policy Costs Lives, He Declares.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Oct. 25.—A large crowd greeted Theodore Roosevelt here last night, when he made a 15-minute talk between trains on his way to Chicago. He declared that a man who is too proud to fight is not too proud to get kicked, and the same is true of nations. Three hundred Americans, he said, lost their lives in Mexico, and those on the Lusitania because foreign nations concluded that the United States was too proud to fight.

"I was President of the United States seven and one-half years," declared Col. Roosevelt in making a platform speech at Kearney, Neb., and during that time no representative of any foreign Power ever harmed a citizen of the United States, because all knew that while I never picked a quarrel, I was not too proud to fight."

France Decorates Three for Bravery

PARIS, Oct. 25.—John Huffer, a New York graduate of the American ambulance and service and now attached to the French pursuing aeroplane squadron, has been awarded the military medal for bringing down a German machine. Like distinction has been conferred on Sgt. Didier Mahon of the American Escadrille, now also at the front, as a result of his destruction of a German machine in the fight in Alsace, in which Norman Prince lost his life.

Another member of the American Escadrille, Paul Paville, has received the Croix de Guerre and rank of Sergeant.

ALLIES WORK TO CONTROL WORLD'S RAW MATERIALS

Investigation of British Trade Policies Causes Much Concern in Washington.

DATA BEING COMPILED

Commercial War After the War Plans Now Viewed as a Practical Proposition.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Domination by the allied nations of the world's raw materials which are essential to American manufacturers has been proved conclusively to officials here by the completion today of a comprehensive summary of British trade policies as to imports into this country. As a result the recent Paris economic conference of the entente powers is regarded here with far greater disquiet than before. The proposed commercial war after the war, at first viewed skeptically as outlining policies which could not survive the heat of war or the operation of perennial economic forces, is looked upon as a more practical proposition in the light of the investigation. Consequently an earnest study of the facts available is being made and every effort extended to supplement the information now at hand.

Every indication since the conference has tended to decrease the feeling that its provisions could not be carried through. Since then, it is pointed out, the blacklist, which had been enforced by England for some time, has been accepted in principle by all the allies. What is more, the agreement made then for the closer economic unity between the governments is shown by reports now coming in to be working out through mutual concessions, excluding other countries from their benefits, though not necessarily viewed as illegal or discriminatory by the United States so long as confined to war purposes.

In the compilation of the various agreements which England has instituted in this country to prevent allied resources from going to Germany's aid is seen a strong indication of what the allies might do through different methods after the war. This domination of the supply of certain raw materials demonstrates after a year of war, considered in connection is believed to be of the Paris agreement is believed to constitute a distinct menace to this country. Article III says:

"The allies declare themselves agreed to conserve for the allied countries, before all others, their natural resources during the whole of the period of commercial, industrial, agricultural and maritime reconstruction and for this purpose they undertake to establish special arrangements to facilitate the interchange of these resources."

There are no less than 14 different forms for various kinds of materials which American importers must file with British consuls before certain goods can be released to them, from the British dominions. These materials, according to the complete list secured today include: Tin, chloride of tin, and tin ore; wool, jute, shellac, tanning materials, antimony, rubber, diamonds, mica, raw leather, plumbago, all the alloys of iron, including ferro-manganese, cobalt, chrome, tungsten, molybdenum, vanadium, nickel and several other kinds of ore.

Where possible, the restriction is effected through the chief American association of manufacturers interested in the trade, such as the New York Metal Exchange for metal, the National Association of Tanners for tanning materials, the United States Shellac Imports Association for shellac and the Textile Alliance for wool and jute. In cases where the importer cannot apply through and be vouched for by such an organization, he signs a personal agreement with the British Consul.

Conditions for Length of War. Importers accept the conditions for the whole length of the war and for all goods of the kind imported, even though part of their supply is from neutral or American sources. The conditions, which run through the whole list of agreements, provide:

That the importer is bringing in the goods for his own use in manufacturing and not for further sale, that in no case will he sell to a blacklisted firm; that he will sell in some cases only to the British empire and in others that he will sell to neutrals only through London under license to be obtained there, and that in all cases every precaution will be taken to prevent the goods from falling into German hands. Always it is provided that the original contracts and documents will be held ready for examination by the British authorities. So far officials here have not been able to hold any of these arrangements illegal, as they recognize that England has the right of embargo if she desires to use it. Nevertheless the power which British officials have in this country of discrimination as between American firms and the possibilities that some such arrangements might be continued after the war under a form made legal to fit the conditions of peace has had a most disquieting effect.

The retaliatory legislation recently passed at the eleventh hour by Congress is thought to fit the present situation under Section 50, providing "that if any article produced in a foreign country is imported into the United States under any agreement, understanding or condition that the importer thereof or any other person in the United States shall not use, purchase, or deal in, or be restricted in his using, purchasing, or dealing in the articles of any other person, there shall be levied, collected and paid thereon in addition to the duty otherwise imposed by law a special duty equal to double the amount of such duty."

As yet, however, there has been no disposition to use this legislation. While it is claimed that its use would be fully justified, it is said, that the breaking up of the present informal arrangements would simply cause a general British embargo on raw products which would leave this country in a much worse situation than it is at present under the limited importation scheme which has proved acceptable to all merchants but those who wish to trade with Germany or with blacklisted firms.

It is because of the precedent which the present situation has established and its possible effect upon the war-affected war that officials feel the deepest concern and are continuing to investigate with the view of planning action to protect American industry.

or with blacklisted firms. It is because of the precedent which the present situation has established and its possible effect upon the war-affected war that officials feel the deepest concern and are continuing to investigate with the view of planning action to protect American industry.

"Yes, That's Doctor Blank's New Studebaker"—

That is what one man said to another, as a Landau-Roadster, in deep, rich maroon coloring, passed them on the boulevard. We could have told them of a well-known local physician's search for a car which would be particularly adapted to his business—and give him the utmost in style and distinctiveness. And now, after investigating the market thoroughly, he picked a Studebaker.

He described to us as well as he could the particular type of body and color scheme he had in mind—and then requested us to use our best judgment in producing a car that would appeal to his individuality. We finished his car in a rich maroon, with interior trimmings in a harmonizing shade of brown, and edged the body with hairline stripes of gold. The result was a car distinctly original and exclusive—expressing the owner's individual taste.

In placing your orders for a Studebaker you may order as you would the highest priced cars in finish and trimming. It is not necessary that you buy a Studebaker in the same color scheme as everyone else. Studebaker, the world's largest manufacturer of fine medium-priced cars, is now devoting a part of its resources in body and finish work to please the taste of exclusive and discriminating buyers. And you obtain in price and quality the economies of enormous production.

Our Autumn Sales Opening and Auto Show of special Touring Cars and Enclosed Bodies continues throughout the week. Whether you intend to buy this Fall or not, you are welcome to drop in and look over the samples of beautiful body work on display.

Every car is built on the big, powerful Studebaker six-cylinder chassis.

Prices range from $1700 to $2750.

You Never Can Tell: That "Sooner" Eleven May Be Heard From Later

EDMUND CASES REP. NOT AT WEIGHT TO OPPOSE MINERS

Re-arranged Lineup of Pikers Is Expected to Show Improvement Saturday.

ROLLA, ELEVEN IS WEAK

But That's What They Said of Drake, Before It Whipped Washington.

By W. J. O'Connor.

In the bright lexicon of the gridiron, "rep" is a synonym for defeat and "pup" is what the Pikers are after. If they acquire it they may yet redeem themselves for a most dismal start on this season's schedule.

Coch Edmunda has made several changes in his lineup for the Rolla game, Saturday, sacrificing weight for aggressiveness. He intends to start Schwartzbach, the smallest man on the squad, as left half because Schwartzbach has shown a commendable inclination to hustle. Capt. Urban Bueck goes on the position he held last season, while Shawley and Meyer will operate in the line.

Dawson will be given another chance at fullback, either Benway or Stout may replace Pete Penberton, who has been a keen disappointment at that position. The best on the team, is on the invalid list and will not oppose Rolla; but may return to the game in time to tackle Michigan, a weak team.

Dutch Wetsel has reconsidered his determination to quit football and will resume his duties, giving Edmunda a line-up something like this:

Washington has no fears of being beaten by Rolla, unless the Miners spring a huge surprise. Imay, the star of the Rolla eleven, is permanently out of it with a broken leg. In their last out, the Miners were man-handled by Arkansas, 60-10, in a game that established their impotence as a Missouri grid factor.

Graves Is Disciplined.

Although the St. Louis U. football squad is not much larger, numerically speaking, than the well-known Corporal's guard, Head Coach Earl Palmer didn't hesitate last night to reduce it by one to preserve training discipline. He unconditionally released Graves, a lineman, because Graves didn't respect the ban on cigarette smoking.

The weed is taboo at the Billiken camp, a fact which Graves was acquainted with, but he produced a puff after Tuesday's tough practice and was advised to quit in his own spare time on his books.

Graves' loss isn't a staggering blow, but Palmer said the suspension would have held in any case. He intends to train discipline, if it costs him the whole team.

The Billiken coach contends that he will not have an "open house" at the Vashit College, Saturday. This team held Dubuque College to a 13-6 score, while Dubuque played St. Louis to a 6-6 draw. Creighton will show here later in the season and is said to have a good team of players.

Reports from Alledo, Ill., the home of William and Vashit, say that a heavy team will be sent here Saturday and the prospects are that the Billiken will get their first real test of the season against an alien foe.

The McKendree drive against the Billiken was the subsequent tilt with the Freshmen showed. No more such games will be booked, even if it means working the Freshmen will administer the midweek medicine, and they're fully capable of doing it.

Leffer a Billiken Star.

One of the real stars of the Billiken Freshmen squad is Leffer, a tackle who graduated last year from the Cleveland High eleven. Leffer played a very smart game in Tuesday's scrimmage and found no trouble breaking through. Leffer is not at his best, however, as he completed a "chasey horse."

Although Waterloo 85 to 0 in its first game against Nebraska, the Drake eleven pulled and played a smart game against Washington. Coach Ralph Glaze, and his assistant, Leffer, who is a tackle, have since whipped together a nifty little team, the Billiken Freshmen, which has ever. Drake gets a severe test this Saturday against McKendree, a team that defeated Chicago U. for the first time in 12 years last week in a low score or slip over a victory it will be a balm for the wounded feelings at Washington.

Mauchbach, the Michigan bear, has scored six touchdowns, kicked one field goal and 12 goals after touchdowns in his season. He's second to Gerald of Dartmouth in the individual scoring honors of the major eleven. This is a new record in Washington. Pikers will sweep down on Ann Arbor a week from Saturday. Sweep wins is right.

BRIGHTMAN'S GREAT WORK HELPS CENTRAL ELEVEN

The Central High School grid team gloried in another victory yesterday afternoon when they defeated the St. Louis University High School team, 10-0. The game, although being played during the interscholastic season, did not affect Coach Walker's plans any, as his men do not play a championship game this Saturday.

Godfrey Brightman of Central, who had been out of the game up until a week ago, played an unusual ever interference the Central boys could form the blue and white simply could not break up.

During the first quarter the Central aggregation put into practice most of their plays just to see how they worked—and they worked. The scoring was done in the second and third periods, touchdowns being made by Taylor I. Brightman, O'Connor, Wistley, L. All the goals were missed. In the last period of play Coach Walker sent his substitutes into the line positions and they were not so bad at that. Perry and Hogan of St. Louis played a game that was very fast, but they did not have team support.

Smith-Manual Wins.

The Kirkwood High School eleven went down to defeat yesterday afternoon before the Smith-Manual team by a score of 17-0. The game which was played on the Smith-Manual was one of the most interesting played this season. The other being a game played between the Smith-Manual and the Kirkwood eleven, which was played about two weeks ago.

The touchdowns were made by Craig and Henson and the goals were kicked by Craig. The game was a very close one, which brought the score up to 17. Much of the ground gained by the Smith-Manual was the result of Craig's kicking.

BOXING COMMISSION RULES CURB FIGHTERS

Printed Code for Governing Local Bouts Will Do Away With Foul Boxing.

The St. Louis Boxing Commission has issued printed rules and regulations for the government of boxing and wrestling in St. Louis. Copies are being distributed to clubs, boxers and others interested, and from now on there should be no excuse for not knowing what requirements are exacted of boxers who perform here.

An important ruling for reference by promoters, boxers and referees is contained in section 22, as follows:

"Marriage of Queensberry rules shall govern all boxing contests, matches or exhibitions, except that boxers must break cleanly from the clinches, without attempting to strike a blow. Contests must not be held while holding, butting or roughing with head or shoulders, wrestling and hugging, clinching and holding, laying on and refusal to step back out of clinches or using elbow, forearm or wrist to strike blows or otherwise used to take unfair advantage. Unsportsmanlike conduct on the part of contestants, including the use of abusive and insulting language, is prohibited."

The foregoing rule is a good one and if strictly enforced will clip the wings of foul-fighting boxers and rob them of the money and publicity of a "good" governing body. However, it will require a firm stand by the Boxing Commission, it is to be hoped.

Copies of the commission rules and regulations may be obtained of Secretary Robert W. Hall, Third National Bank Building.

Tigers Favored to Beat Oklahoma; Aggies Even Choice in Kansas Game

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 26.—For the first time in the history of athletic relations between the two schools, even money is being wagered that the Kansas Aggies will beat Kansas University when they clash on the gridiron at Lawrence Saturday.

In previous years K. U. has been favored to win. In 1915, for example, the Aggies made against Nebraska has thrown a scare into the Jayhawkers camp. The score was 10-0, and the Aggies, who are playing in the Jayhawkers' own field have something to do with it. The Aggies have at least an even chance to win.

Missouri is banking on a victory over the crippled Oklahoma Sooners. Missouri has a good and black in many years, while Oklahoma's team is crippled and is not up to the standard of former seasons. Tigers are 3-to-1 favorites in the betting.

Soldan Hard at It.

Coach Kelly of the Soldan football squad has his men out in Forest Park yesterday, putting them through a drill that they are not likely to forget very soon. He not only had them going through their signals, but also had them bucking the second team, which is by no means made up of Ben-Hack Savages. That worthy left halfback, was receiving individual instruction as to how to play the part in several of the plays that are to be used against Yeaman in the game Saturday morning. This will be Soldan's first championship game. Coach Kelly said that he had no difficulty deciding on his lineup for Saturday's game, as all of the players were coming round in first-class shape.

San Felice Cigars

FIVE CENTS STRAIGHT AND WORTH IT!

Owing to the greatly increased cost of quality tobacco, in fact everything pertaining to high-grade cigars, the makers of the San Felice cigar, The Delmar-Walker Company, have advanced the selling price to the jobbers and Dealers, and henceforth this cigar will positively be sold to the consumer at a cent straight instead of six for a quarter as previously.

The SAN FELICE is national in its scope and character, having justly attained this eminence through its unequalled excellence. To maintain this unequalled standard of quality, the advance in question is absolutely unavoidable. The generous support of all men using quality cigars is earnestly desired.—ADV.

DAME RUMOR.
DAME RUMOR'S back upon the job. She'll have a banner season; She'll have to peddle Tyrus Cobb. And try McGraw for treason. The Cardinals, upon the block, Await the highest bidder; And Connie's Mac'rels are in hook—So says this gay old kiddie.

More power to the good old dame! The thought is quite consoling. That, when the news is getting tame, She'll start the ball a-rolling. She's guide, philosopher and friend To every baseball writer; And, when some doubtful story's penned, They never fail to cite her.

The winter of our discontent Shall turn to glorious summer. By pulling off some trade that's meant To make our team a hummer; Especially on tail-end teams, She'll lavish many favors; Although of iridescent dreams, Her story often savors.

The good old dame is up to snuff, And knows the twists and angles; She kicks in with a line of stuff, About the inside wrangles. When magnates won't release the news For fear that they might rue it, She goes to work upon her claws And always beats 'em to it.

Jimmy Austin will winter in California, where the pepper trees grow. Barring earthquakes, fires, floods, railroad wrecks, sickness, death or any other unforeseen act of providence, Jimmy will be with us next spring.

You can knock Roche all you please, but he suits Freddie Welsh all right.

JABEZ WHITE HAS NO 'EASY MARK' IN HAYES

New Yorker May Have to Extend Himself to Win, at Stag A. C. Show Tonight.

The Stag Athletic Club, 294 South Jefferson avenue, has a good program of boxing arranged for tonight, provided the boxers will deal fairly with the club and its patrons and do their best. There is no reason to believe that they will not, for all of them have been seen here before in satisfactory exhibitions.

Jabez White, the red-headed bantamweight boxer from Albany, N. Y., who clipped the claws of Benny McNeill and Jimmy Murphy in recent bouts here, is scheduled to oppose "Chuck" Hayes of Indianapolis for 12 rounds. Several years ago Hayes was in the first flight of bantamweight boxers. At that time he was under the management of Ray Brown, which connection probably did him but little good in the boxing game, and he soon began to slip.

Recently, however, he has given some evidence of returning to old-time form and he is expected to give White a good battle. He will have to be at his best and going at full speed to defeat the New Yorker, however, as the little fellow is boxing better now than at any time in his career. White and Hayes are to meet at 8 o'clock, while Witt is scheduled for eight rounds. Colons defeated "Red" Johnson at the South Broadway A. C. about 10 days ago, while Witt was knocked out by Jimmy Curtis at Jefferson Barracks a week ago last Monday.

Pete Macklin and "Knockout" Tully, the latter a newcomer, will provide the preliminary bouts. Tickets for the event will be 50 cents and $1. The entertainment is scheduled to start at 8:30 o'clock.

CHICAGO BOWLERS TO SEND 3 TITLE TEAMS

Two-Time Winners of the A. B. C. Championship Will Be Among the Number.

Chicago, which has always had great success in either Middle West or American Bowling Congress tournament competition, will be represented at the coming Mid-West by at least three teams that hold championships of some kind. They are the Commodore Barry, who for the last two years have landed the A. B. C. highest honors, year before last rolling under the name of the Barry Keltelers; the Bowlers' Journal No. 1, present Mid-West champions, and the little Bohemians, who as the Men-deles won the Windy City title last year.

To date entries have been received by Secretary D. J. Sweeney from 14 Windy City teams. This is expected to be increased by about 10 before Nov. 10, when the entry lists close. Chicago this year is taking more interest in the event than ever before. And there's a reason.

At the last tourney staged in Omaha, the Windy City had only six entrants and $35 of prize money. This year the prize fund for five-man teams. This peevish delegates from the other cities are expected to send more than 100 teams to the event or be dropped from the Middle West Association. Hence the added interest in interest being shown. Chicago annually sends 25 to 30 and 30 teams to the A. B. C. rolling.

Collier Has Hard Luck.

Among the pin-toppers who will be here with the Chicago delegation will be Charley (Chuck) Collier, the "tough-luck" tenpinner of the last Mid-West. Collier, rolling with the Chalmers in Omaha last year came to the tenth frame with doubles up. Getting his bowling ball, he stepped over a piece of gum and fell over the foul line in delivering the shot. A foul was called by the judge and it was his last. Collier and the championship by 21 pins.

The entries received from Chicago to date are the Edelweiss-Brooks, two teams from the Bergers League, Little Bohemians, Bowlers' Journal No. 1, Bowlers' Journal No. 2, Rio Tama, Runfins, Mineralites, Commodore Barry and Wabash.

Visiting Fives Bowl Each Day.

St. Louis will set several records at the coming tournament on the Washington alley. Besides having the greatest entry list ever known in the history of the Middle West Association, out-of-town teams will roll every day, with the exception of the opening night. This is the first time this has been the case in the rolling of a tournament of any importance. Usually the first few days are set aside for the officials for the home team. This year, though, the requests for reservation from Chicago, as well as this city, will try for records. Perils made request for reservations for the first night, but were turned down.

All-Stars Bowl Tonight.

The final half of the first round of the Greater St. Louis tournament will be staged tonight, when six matches will be rolled. Most of the top players competing tonight are new-comers to all-star competition, but all of them have made great records in league bowling. The matches are:

Joe Randall vs. W. Vahrenhorst, 8 o'clock; Jerry Ameling vs. George Willis, 8 o'clock; Louis Waldecker vs. Harry Hood, 8 o'clock; C. K. Hulse vs. George Warner, 8 o'clock; Bob Plummer vs. Dan Schierbaum, 10 o'clock; H. Gross vs. G. R. Hall, 10 o'clock.

Patterson in Main Bout.

Leo Patterson, who has won 11 of his last 13 bouts here by knockout, will battle Seattle Snake Kid in the 12-round feature bout of the negro show at the Future City tomorrow night. Kid Duane, who has won 10 of his 11 bouts, will battle Round Jones in the semi-main event. Both fights will be in the preliminary. A battle royal will open the show.

It is said that the National Commission will reduce the price of world's series tickets, increase the number of games and divide the money among all the players in the two major leagues. Very good. Ed Ed will be entirely satisfactory except to the clubs winning the pennants.

W. L. DOUGLAS'S COLUMN

The "Money" Test for Hoppe.

WILLIE HOPPE holds three world's billiard titles and has successfully defended all of them at least once. He is 29 years old and since the age of 19 has held at least one cue honor.

But not since he began his career, with the possible exception of his first match for the world's title in Paris, has he been put to as severe a test as will confront him next Monday night, when he starts his 18-2 cue stick series with George Butler Sutton, the 55-year-old veteran and former double title-holder.

For Hoppe MUST win, this time. This time it is a "money" test that is being put up to him, rather than one of glory. For, unless he wins Hoppe's three months' tour of the country will be defeated like a punctured balloon.

It's Worth $30,000 to Hoppe.

LAST year a similar tour netted Hoppe over $10,000 for himself alone. A like amount awaits him this year if he starts the trip with all his former prestige, plus the added scalp of Sutton.

But if Sutton WINS, although Hoppe will still hold two titles, his position as the super-player of the world, a quest in a class of his own, will have been shot from under him and admirers of his prowess will consider him vulnerable, after all. His tour will go ahead, but the receipts may be seriously curtailed.

In other words, Hoppe, in the coming match, will be playing for the following entitles:

The 18-2 ballline title. A $1500 side wager. All of the gate receipts. A difference in receipts from the tour, amounting to possibly $25,000.

In other words, a defeat may cost Hoppe about $30,000. That's a pretty good reason to test his "money" nerve.

Those Indians Come Back.

CARLISLE INDIANS, the most picturesque figures in college football history, will again appear on the gridiron. The department of the interior has just yielded to popular demand and has restored the sport, which was last taken away from the school by the action of the Indian Commission. An eleven is already in the field, and while it has not had time to develop much, will be heard from next season, beyond doubt.

The sport was resumed at Carlisle because the lure of the game brings to the institution many aborigines who, without this attraction, would attend educational institutions nearer to their own reservations.

Indians Prove Resourceful.

UNDER the coaching of Glenn Warner, now with Pittsburg University, Carlisle was a much-sought eleven. A good game was always assured and, as a rule, it was seriously curtailed.

Last Night's Fights

Glenester, Mass.—Tony Vadim got a 12-round decision over Kid Thomas.

Providence—Jimmy O'Hagan won a 15-round decision over Frank Carbone.

New York—Mike McEllis, middle weight champion of Ireland, proved himself all to the good by giving K. O. Sweeney a good licking in 10 rounds. Dave Medar knocked out Ray Rivers, eight rounds.

Canton, O.—(Late Tuesday night) Sammy Robinson knocked out Al Dotson in seven.

THE BIG "PRO" GAME.

LOOKING forward to the big battle with Massillon, another eleven of all-star former college players, the Canton Massillon team has hidden their identity under aliases, but two of them have not. They are Rockne, end, and Dorcas, quarterback. Both were stars of the great game at Notre Dame.

Vic Kennard, who led the goal that won for Harvard over Yale, several years ago, is said to be one of the all-Americans sailing under an alias.

The professional games are played with all the earnestness and fight that feature college contests. That Canton-Massillon struggle will have considerably more heat than anything short of a battle royal.

After going through a Canton-Massillon game, first line troops life on a European front is merely a vacation.

MUNICIPAL SOCCERITES TO ORGANIZE TONIGHT

The Municipal Soccer Association for the coming season will be officially launched at a meeting to be held tonight in room 115 of the city hall, when the teams will be placed in the different divisions and a schedule arranged for the opening contests next Sunday afternoon.

Last season something like 15 eleven participated for the city honors, but this year it is expected to be increased this season.

Divisions will be placed in Forest Park, Fairground and Grandview Park. This is a new feature and a possibility that there will be one at C. B. C. The municipal division will be held at the Grandview Park, the Columbia A. C. grounds and the Cleveland High School field.

The entry closes at noon today, and all those not in the hands of Endows Abelen, director of municipal athletics, at that time will not be considered.

At a meeting held yesterday, the Saturday division of the district was completed, the four teams being the East Stars, Trumbull, Arcade Red Sox and Eden College. The opening game of the district will be staged on Nov. 1 probably at Fairground.
